NANTASKET, SCENE OF DESOLATION, FIRE CAUSED $500,000 LOSS

Firemen and Soldiers Guard Smoking Embers of Conflagration Which Last Night Swept Much of Paragon Park, Destroyed About 40 Cottages and Damaged Many More—Flames Fought in Bitterly Cold Northwest Gale Which Swept Up From Sea

HULL, March 29.—Nantasket Beach, all summer long the home of merry-making and recreation, was a scene of desolation today. Firemen and soldiers from Fort Revere stood at intervals about the Center Hill and Green Hill sections of the town guarding the smoking embers of the conflagration which last night swept much of Paragon Park, famous amusement resort, destroyed about 40 cottages and damaged many more. Estimates of the loss varied, but it was believed that it would total about $500,000.

LAWRENCE MILL GRANTS INCREASE —WAGE CONFERENCE IN FALL RIVER

Everett Mills, of Lawrence, Announce Wage Advance Effective April 30—Fall River Cotton Manufacturers Arrange Conference With Textile Council on Wage Question for Next Monday

LAWRENCE, March 29.—The Everett mills, makers of cotton goods today announced an advance and readjustment of wages beginning Monday, April 30. The company employs 1800. Officials would not state the amount of the increase.

FALL RIVER MILL MEN YIELD
FALL RIVER, March 29.—With cotton manufacturers elsewhere falling into the line of wage advances set by woolen mills, the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' association today arranged a conference with the Textile Council on the wage question for next Monday. This action, unexpected, was accepted in the city generally as an indication of partial retreat by the mill owners from the position that they would shut down their plants rather than grant an increase.

The negotiations between the manufacturers and the Textile Council stood adjourned without date until the letter from the association to President James Tansey of the council today set next Monday at 3 p. m. for renewal of the conference. It had been agreed by vote of the council, to postpone until April 30, any action to enforce its demands for a 15 per cent. advance.

The United Textile workers, considering steps to support their demand for a 25 per cent. increase, have meetings of the executive committee and President Thomas F. McMahon, and of the constituent unions set for tonight. Pres. McMahon has been authorized to call a strike whenever he decides the time is opportune, and he has announced that the date and hour have been set, but that action was being withheld temporarily to see the result of the negotiations between the manufacturers and the rival union.

Saco-Lowell Shops Present Definite Plans for Expansion on Tract of Land Opposite Present Building

If City Council Grants Request to Close Worthen Street Company Will Waive Spur Track Across Dutton Street and Will Erect Twin Structures on Land, Three Stories in Height, 500 Feet in Length and 80 Feet in Width—Will Throw Covered Steel Bridge Across Dutton Street at Height of Third Story Windows—Room for 1000 New Operatives

The Saco-Lowell Shops is prepared to spend one million dollars in expansion in this city. Contingent upon favorable action on the part of the city council relative to its petition to close a portion of Worthen street, a definite and complete plan of building expansion upon the large tract of land opposite the present plant in Dutton street was announced today from the local office of the Saco-Lowell shops by Agent E. B. Foster.

The plan embraces the immediate erection of a magnificent building of brick and concrete, 400 feet in length and 80 feet in width, of three stories and basement, extending from Broadway along Dutton street and providing two and one-half acres of floor space, and the erection of a drop-forge building, 40 by 80 feet, on the back side of the tract as near the canal as possible and approximately on the site of the old Sawyer Carriage Co. building, and in addition, the construction of a steel covered bridge over Dutton street, connecting at the third stories the present building with the new building.

Two new nurses for school hygiene work will not be dropped from the list of three World war veterans eligible for appointment as building manager and custodian for the Memorial Auditorium, according to a letter received by Mayor John J. Donovan from the secretary of the civil service commission. In other words, the commission, of civil service does not feel that evidence presented to the commission by means of an affidavit signed by J. Mackenzie, the commission.

ICE JAM IN MERRIMACK RIVER BLOCKS STREET CAR SERVICE

Pipe Supplying Water for Condensers at Power Station Choked With Ice—Unusual Happening Delays Early Morning Car Traffic for About an Hour and a Half

An ice jam in the Merrimack river was responsible for the stopping of street car service this morning from 6:05 to 7:30, during the time when the mill help are depending on the cars to get them to work on time, and as a result thousands who usually ride were compelled to walk to work on one of the coldest March mornings on record. The water for the condensers of the engines at the street railway power station is drawn from the river through a large pipe, and during the night the heavy cakes were blown into a jam around this pipe, and shell ice formed by the extreme cold prevented the water from entering it. Without this source of supply the engines could not be operated except at a very light load, and could only furnish power to a few of the many circuits in the city.

UNPRECEDENTED FLOW OF ICE IN CANALS THREATEN DISASTER TO MILL WATER SERVICE

Enormous masses of Merrimack river ice broken up into jagged pieces averaging five by four feet in size and six inches in thickness, broke away from the upper reach of the Pawtucket canal near the gatehouse this morning shortly before 6 o'clock, rushed in a spectacular manner down the stream, threatening disaster to mill water service gates, screens and the big water wheels.

ONE HUNDRED GALLONS OF ALCOHOL SEIZED BY THE POLICE

Officers Make Big Haul in Starbird Street—One of Two Men Arrested in Connection With Seizure is Fined $100 and Another is Found Not Guilty

One hundred gallons of pure alcohol, valued at more than a thousand dollars, the largest individual confiscation of this nature recorded in this city since the enforcement of the prohibition law, resulted in the arrest about 8:30 o'clock this morning of Thomas Frenette and Joseph Chevalier at 33 Starbird street on charges of illegally keeping intoxicating liquor. In the district court, Frenette pleaded not guilty and was discharged, while Chevalier was fined $100 on a plea of guilty.

COLDEST SPRING DAY IN HALF A CENTURY

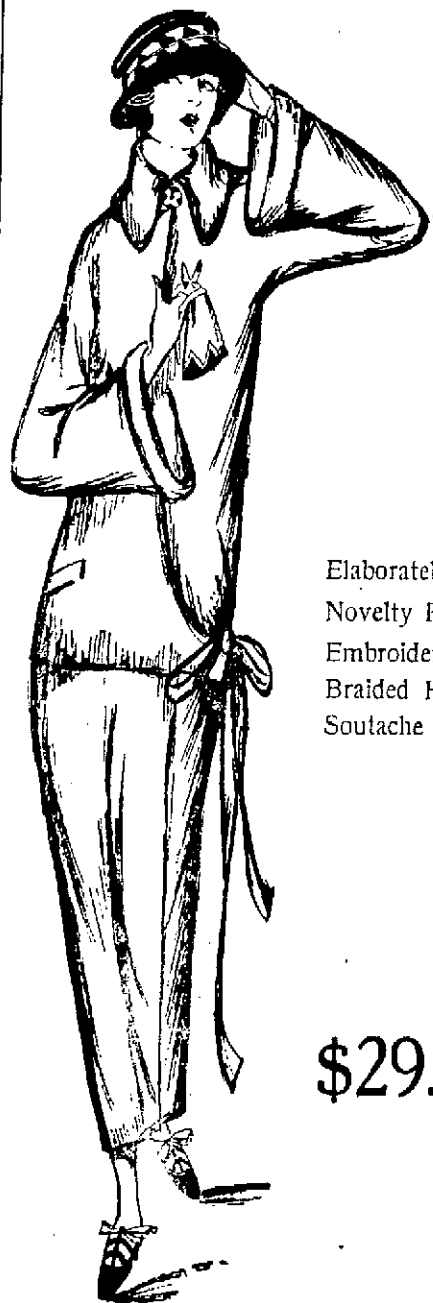

This was Lowell's coldest spring day in half a century, according to official weather bureau records. Below zero registrations on Lowell and out of town thermometers clinched the bad news in early spring weather reports this morning.

All old-time late March clearings were smashed by this morning's official "two below" zero registration at the Locks and Canals. In the towns about Lowell glasses read as low as 4 below in Chelmsford, 4 below in Peabody and 2 below at 5 a. m. at the filtration plant on the river. Dracut came in with 4 below at 4 a. m. Half-frozen "early bird" milkmen brought the tough news. Anxious citizens wondered how the Continued on Last Page

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 29.—The tug Elmer A. The crew of the tug, which struck a rock and sunk within 20 minutes, took to lifeboats and landed safely at New London and Goshen after hours of exposure to the bitter cold. The crews of the barges Mauretania, Catherine Keeler, and Emma Keeler were picked up by the tank steamer Vedol, which had been attracted by distress signals, and were brought here today.

Mackenzie's Name to Remain on List

Omer Allard, clerk of the election commission, and having to do with alleged statements made to him last fall by Mr. Mackenzie at a time when he was in commission were being certified strength to call for a new list of eligibles which would not include the name of the present temporary cut-throat.

At a meeting of the Auditorium trustees some two weeks ago Mayor Donovan declared he had evidence at hand which might have some bearing on the eligibility of Mr. Mackenzie and, therefore, no action was taken upon the eligible list forwarded by the civil service and containing the names of Messrs. Sullivan, Preston, and Mackenzie, in that order. In order to allow the mayor to present this evidence in some form to the civil service commission and extension of the time of the certification was requested and granted, which would keep the original eligible list in effect until early in April.

In due course of time the mayor found his evidence in affidavit form and the commission, who after examining it, feels there is not sufficient justification to warrant a withdrawal of the list and therefore it stands and an election therefrom undoubtedly will occur next Monday evening.

Mayor Donovan said today he has no personal feelings against Mr. Mackenzie, but simply offered evidence that was submitted to him, which he felt it his duty to do.

He reiterated his intention to vote for the first name on the eligible list, which is Mr. Sullivan.

ent No. 2 mill in the main yard and the new building.

In announcing this definite expansion program, which the company officials are ready to present to the city council for its consideration, the Saco-Lowell Shops withdrew its request for a spur railroad track across Dutton street, but in order to transport manufactured machinery from new buildings to the shipping department in the main yard without seriously interfering with vehicular traffic in Dutton street, an elevated bridge-way will be a necessity and therefore is announced in the construction plans.

Three Buildings in Group
The expansion plans do not stop with the immediate erection of the buildings mentioned, however, for the 400-foot structure along Dutton street will be so built as to allow continuation for an additional 100 feet, which would carry it to what is now Kitson street. Further plans, all of which, by the way, now are being prepared by the engineering firm of Lockwood-Greene Co., call for the erection of another building in back of the first one and its replica in size. This second building would be so built as to cover the entire back side of the tract as far as the Locks and Canals land and between the two buildings would be an alleyway of approximately 80 feet in width, to be sundered and used as a trucking space and for whatever storage might be necessary in the operation of the new plant.

When the Saco-Lowell Shops first outlined what it proposed to do upon this tract of land, provided the city gave it permission to the closing of Worthington street, plans called for the erection of a three-story building along Broadway, but this has been found not to be advisable as the necessary length and resulting floor space would not be adequate to the needs of the company. Therefore, the new plans call for the 400-foot building fronting on Dutton street and its twin directly behind it, both running parallel to that thoroughfare.

First Building Within One Year
Engineers have estimated that the first building could be ready for occupancy eight months after work was started, but local officers of the company feel this statement a little too optimistic and are inclined to set the time of erection at one year from the date permission to close the street is granted.

The drop-forge building and the building along Dutton street would be in the process of erection at the same time, for forgings from the drop forge shop would be used in the manufacture of machinery in the main building.

The moment the Dutton street building becomes ready for occupancy 500 men would go there to work. Some of these would be taken from departments in the present plant, now seriously congested and overcrowded, while others would be new mechanics. With the entire expansion plan completed opportunity will be afforded for the employment of between 800 and 1000 new workmen.

The proposed manufacturing area would house some congested departments now in the old plant, allow for a centralization of several branches of manufacture and also would provide for the manufacture of French wrought machinery, a line recently taken over by the Lowell shops.

Agent Feaster said today the number of employees of the company depends entirely upon space in which to work and that about expansion the present number of 2300 employees cannot materially be increased.

"We should like to employ 3700 men instead of 2700," said Mr. Feaster. "but we have not the necessary space in which they might work." He added that at present 300 men are working all night in an effort to maintain production schedules and said this would not be necessary if adequate floor space was available.

How Bridge Would Be Used
Speaking of the proposal to throw a covered steel suspension bridge over Dutton street, Mr. Feaster said it would run from the third story of the new building to the third story of what is now known as No. 2 building in the main yard. It would be sufficiently above the street level to clear with considerable space to spare all wires and would in no manner constitute a menace. Virtually, it would place both plants under one roof and while it would be used principally by electrically driven industrial trucks, employees would use it while passing from one section of the plant to the other.

The Saco-Lowell operates a large fleet of these industrial trucks of three tons capacity and they would become the only medium by which machinery would be transported from the new mill to the shipping room.

"I realize that it will cost a lot of money and use up much valuable time if we are obliged to truck all our finished machinery from one side of Dutton street to the other through this bridge," said Agent Feaster. "but it will save away with a grade crossing and will remove all our trucks from the street and we are willing to withdraw our grade crossing request."

Agent Feaster said the company is ready to go ahead with its plans on very short notice, or just as soon as the city council acts, should the company's request be granted. In withdrawing the request for a grade crossing and in presenting definite and conclusive expansion plans, Mr. Feaster believes the company has removed the

G. A. R. Veteran to Get College Diploma

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 29.—Private Dalzell, known to Grand Army of the Republic men all over the country is to get his diploma from Washington & Jefferson college 60 years after he left his studies to enter the Northern army in the Civil war. The story came out today when announcement was made that the trustees on recommendation of the faculty, had voted to confer the degree of Bachelor of Arts on J. M. Dalzell, age 84, of the United States soldiers' home at Washington, D. C. He will be present if he is physically able, to receive his diploma at this year's commencement exercises.

Held For Unlawfully Wearing Uniform

BOSTON, March 29.—Gustavus D. Dunshee, arraigned before a federal commissioner today on a charge of unlawfully wearing the uniform of a regular army officer while selling a book, was brought to official attention. Soliciting for the sale of the book at Boston university yesterday he failed to pay his respects to the commanding officer of the military detachment there. Inquiry as to the reason for this breach of courtesy, led to his arrest. He was held in $1500 bonds for a hearing later.

If we are obliged to truck all our finished machinery from one side of Dutton street to the other through this bridge," said Agent Feaster. "but it will save away with a grade crossing and will remove all our trucks from the street and we are willing to withdraw our grade crossing request."

Agent Feaster said the company is ready to go ahead with its plans on very short notice, or just as soon as the city council acts, should the company's request be granted. In withdrawing the request for a grade crossing and in presenting definite and conclusive expansion plans, Mr. Feaster believes the company has removed the two outstanding objections to the plan in the mind of the council. Of course, the first step in the construction plan should the shops be allowed to proceed would be to tear down all the corporation tenement property now on the tract, extending from Broadway, along Dutton street to Kitson and on both sides of Worthington street.

"Our first concern," said Agent Feaster, "would be to find suitable homes for the persons now living in these houses." Excavation would follow immediately and then the erection of the first building fronting on Dutton street.

The recovery of that country is progressing rapidly, and the German fleet is being re-equipped. Mr. Burd, "is one of the most remarkable," if the least generally recognized, exponents of the last four years.

When the war broke out," continues this writer, "Germany possessed 1,000,000 tons of steam tonnage. She ranked the second greatest sea-carrying power in the world, and had recovered an efficient organization, and had every foreign port for her ships, her assassins and cargoes. Under the Versailles treaty she was compelled to surrender virtually all her sea-going ships, and was left with only about 100,000 tons of steam tonnage. Today, she is the possessor of the thrift and industry of her wrecked fleet, and of the merchant fleet of about 1,000,000 tons, and by the end of the present year will own about 3,000,000 tons.

"The Germans have built a great volume of new tonnage at very cheap rates and they have bought, and are buying, second-hand tonnage in England and the United States and are engineering it for sale. There is no country east, west or south which is not now visited by German ships. In months by month the number of vessels employed at sea is being steadily in-

TOLD THE STORY OF THE PASSION PLAY

Rev. Henry R. Burns, O.M.I., of Tewksbury, told a capacity crowd at the Sacred Heart school hall last night the story of the Passion Play as given at Oberammergau by the natives of that village. Fr. Burns was well fitted to tell on this play as he saw it last year while on a tour through central Europe.

Fr. Burns told his story just as he saw it last summer, and the illustrations accompanying the lecture were the only authorized pictures of this great pageant of the last days of our Lord.

The Passion Play is the sole work of the people of Oberammergau, everything that goes into it comes from this hamlet, the director is a native of the village, and every one of the thousand that takes part in this immense spectacle is brought up with that the main idea in their training, that they will some day have the honor of performing in this play.

The history of the Passion Play of Oberammergau dates back to 1632. A pestilence broke out in Bavaria and whole towns succumbed to the disease. In this town, 54 died and the villagers were panic stricken. They gathered together and vowed that if the plague were taken away they would give the Passion of our Lord every 10 years. The plague stopped as suddenly as it started, and through the generations since then the Passion Play has been given by these humble and faithful peasants.

A year's work is necessary, and six months' actual rehearsing is done and is done in the open air, in rain, snow, or hail, before the play is ready for presentation. Last year over 315,000 people made a pilgrimage to the little town to see the play and it was necessary to repeat on the following day of each of the 11 scheduled performances. A motion picture company offered the producers an immense sum for the filming rights of this play, but they met with a very cool reception.

The scene of the play is perfect. The river Ammer at one side and in the background the mountains, the theatre itself taking up a flat plain just above the village. Above the stage is represented Christ surrounded by the poor. On the curtain are delicately wrought figures of Moses, Jeremiah and Isaiah. The play starts at 8 in the morning and continues until 8 at night, with an intermission from 12 noon to 2 o'clock. A cannon shot announces the beginning of the play and then an orchestra gives the introduction. From then on every minute is taken up with scenes of the life of our Lord and His Passion and then death on the cross.

During an intermission, a few selections were given by Timothy Finnegan, accompanied by John J. Kelly at the piano.

LOWELL MILITIAMEN TO ATTEND BANQUET
Lowell members of the National Guard deny absolutely that any militiamen in this vicinity are opposed to the movement to transfer a testimonial dinner at three dollars a plate to Brother Hyman of the Lawrence armory. Many plan to go to the banquet upon invitation of the Lawrence committee handling the affair and are anxious to make it a success.

Armorer Hunt of the Westford street armory, who it was learned in "The Sun" several days ago, did not approve of the plan to secure banquet tickets, purchasers in Lowell, stated today that he never expressed any opposition to the plan proposed. He hoped the Hyman banquet would be a success in every sense of the word.

UNPAID WATER BILLS LIENS ON REAL ESTATE

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 29.—With Senator Frank H. Putnam of Lowell leading the debate in favor of the bill making unpaid water rates liens on real estate, the senate yesterday, 20 to 18, ordered the bill to a third reading. Considerable opposition developed against the measure in the upper body and it was only after a lengthy debate that the advocates of the bill were able to have it advanced another step in its journey through the legislative machinery.

The bill, which was substituted in the house for the adverse report of the committee on judiciary, will allow the city of Lowell, as well as all the other cities in the state, to collect many more water bills.

Senator Putnam declared there are hundreds of bills which cannot be collected now and the cities will save thousands of dollars if the bill is enacted. He said that if unpaid water rates were made liens on real estate the bills would be paid with surprising swiftness. The bill was ordered to a third reading on a rising vote of 15 to 13 and the final vote was taken on a roll call.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 29.—Some 30 initiates in the Scottish Rite forming a class in the 21st and 27th degrees, today claimed the distinction of having been addressed directly by President Harding.

The president last night accompanied by Brig. Gen. Sawyer, slipped away from the hotel and went to the Scottish Rite Temple, where he remained for two hours, witnessing the ceremonies and at their close addressing the class.

More golf and more rest, was the president's program for today. It was considered probable that he would have a few conferences including one with Attorney General Daugherty.

The minister also alleges that as a result of the statement he had been forced to resign from the pastoral office. His resignation takes effect next Saturday.

FOUR-DAY CARNIVAL OPENED LAST NIGHT

Members of Centralville L.O.O.F. No. 215 and Centralville Rebekahs No. 137 formally opened a four-day carnival in Odd Fellows hall, Bridge street, last evening, the first night's attendance being excellent notwithstanding the frigid outside weather conditions that kept more friends of the Centralville fraternal societies from being present on the auspicious opening of the carnival attractions.

The hall was attractively decorated and the numerous booths, also arrayed in colorful decorations, were liberally patronized. Besides the food and drink tables, there were tables for the display of handkerchiefs and domestic articles. The ice cream booth was liberally patronized also.

The entertainment last evening was presented under the direction of Mrs. Effie Abare in the form of a short comedy sketch, "A Fool and a Pathetic." Elmer H. Emmons and Louis Crowell appeared as father and son respectively, and Oval Hollingsworth portrayed the boy chum. Tonight, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Howe, a musical program will be provided by David Dobson, well known in this vicinity as a Scotch singer of much ability; Lillian and Helen Green, pianists; Lillian and Helen Green, pianists; Lillian and Helen Green, pianists.

Mrs. Alice Estabrook has general charge of the auxiliary's end of the carnival and is assisted by the following chairmen of the various booth committees: Mrs. Bernice Huntley, aprons; Mrs. Anna Patenaude, fancy work; Mrs. Lillian Howe, grab bag; Mrs. Helen Lancy, candy; Miss Rebecca Fish, domestic; Mrs. Edna Johnson, handkerchiefs; and Walter Merrill, ice cream and tonics. Mrs. Alice Russell is general secretary and Mrs. Effie Abare, general treasurer.

CRIPPLED BOAT BEING TOWED IN

BOSTON, March 29.—With insufficient fuel to continue beyond Nantucket, the Shipping board steamer West Inskip, from Antwerp to New York, with the disabled freighter West Helix in tow, will be met off South Shoal lightship by a Shipping board tug, to be sent from New York and relieved of her tow.

The West Inskip has towed the West Helix, crippled through boiler trouble for nine days and at times has been barely able to proceed in the face of heavy gales. In the 48 hour period between Sunday noon and Tuesday noon, the vessels covered only 121 miles. The tug will take the disabled freighter to Boston and the West Inskip will proceed to New York.

The West Helix sailed from Antwerp on Feb. 2 for Boston, and put into The Azores Feb. 23, with machinery damaged and short fuel, resuming her voyage March 2. On March 14 she became helpless and broadcast appeals for aid, to which the West Inskip responded.

RETAIL COAL DEALERS

Merrimack Valley Retail Coal

Dealers' Association Holds

Convention Here

Retail coal merchants from numerous cities and towns comprising the Merrimack Valley Retail Coal Dealers' Association, held a well-attended convention yesterday afternoon at Liberty hall. There were organization members or delegates present from a district stretching from Newburyport, Mass., to Franklin, N. H., 47 in all. Numerous guests of the association also were present.

Among the cities and towns represented were Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport, Amesbury, Billerica, Warrum, Manchester, Nashua, Franklin and Tilton. The guests included William A. Clark, president of the New England Coal Dealers' association, and Herbert R. White of the Coal Trade Journal. The latter was the first secretary of the Merrimack Valley association and held that position for four years.

Dinner was served at noon. President Moore presided and there was a sort business session afterward, delegates being welcomed by the leader of the association, Secretary Charles B. Bodwell read his annual report. Ballots were distributed, specifying "good," "average" and "poor" relative to the experience of the various coal dealers in regard to business conditions during the past year. There were nine votes marked "good" and 20 marked "poor."

Former Secretary White of Chelmsford talked at length upon the subject of co-operation in the coal business. E. B. Bodwell of Manchester, dean of the coal dealers represented, with a record of 65 years in the business of merchandising, received a cordial reception. General Sherman's allusion to war made memorable by the employment of a profane word, applied to the coal business of the past season, the speaker said.

Several coal company representatives explained past and present conditions in various district cities. E. A. Wilson of this city said that it might be necessary to purchase fully 33 per cent independent coal if customers were to be well supplied in the days to come. Other dealers considered this estimate rather low, some saving 50 per cent would have to be bought in that manner. T. T. Hazlewood explained the different retail prices in various cities and said that coal dealers were entitled to at least 10 per cent profit on sales.

Representatives from each district on the exact conditions of the coal distributing industry in their localities.

W. A. Clark of the New England association spoke on federal and state legislation affecting the coal industry top and bottom. The United States Coal commission has sent questionnaires to dealers all over the country, requesting replies on coal business statistics and prospects as soon as possible. These will be filed out, Mr. Clark said, or at least he hoped they would be.

The recent "pure coal bill" enacted by the state legislature was denounced by Mr. Clark as "iniquitous and as harmful to the people of the state as the coal dealers."

This Will Ward Off And Break Up Colds

Just a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin removes the congestion

THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illnesses and of the greatest proportion of deaths.

They are constipation and common colds. Many doctors now believe that colds, tonsillitis, a touch of malaria will cause constipation, instead of constipation being their cause. The fact remains that you seldom have a cold without constipation, due to general congestion. The only way to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if you are run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE
Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy literature that anyone in the family can use when congested?" I urge you to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate trial. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. H. Caldwell, 115 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

At the first sign of a cold, at the first few warning sneezes, take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin and the congestion will be gone in a few hours. Don't wait until the cold has a grip on you. Mr. Henry Dunn, Jr., of Rochester, N. Y., cured a stubborn cold in just that way, and Mrs. Alice Corbrey of Haskell, Okla., uses it effectively for all the small ills of her family, such as constipation, biliousness, headaches, dizziness, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is safe to give to infants, and all children like it. Before you again resort to cold remedies containing narcotics try a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist will supply you, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

SILENT NIGHTS HELP DISTANCE HEARING

CHICAGO, March 29.—"Silent nights," when local radio broadcasting stations forego the presentation of programs, inaugurated a week or so ago, have resulted in many records of long distance reception, according to a compilation of reports made here recently. Monday nights were temporarily adopted by the Chicago broadcasters for the experiment in response to many requests from radio fans for a "silent night," and will be continued, it was said, unless the popular demand wanes.

A plan whereby "silent nights" be adopted by broadcasting stations throughout the country has been discussed following the inauguration of Chicago's silence. Under this plan stations in a certain district would not broadcast on Monday night, another district would not send on Tuesday night, and so on throughout the week. It was pointed out that in this way the entire country would have a silent night once a week.

Objection to "silent nights" has been raised by radio fans owning crystal detector sets, which ordinarily are capable of receiving telephone signals for a distance of only 25 miles. It is estimated that from one-third to one-half of the radio telephone receiving sets in Chicago use crystals. Only receivers using audion bulb detectors are certain of long distance reception.

Inauguration of "silent nights" has brought prominently to the radio fan's attention the phenomenon of "fading," encountered only when listening to far away stations. "Fading," for which radio experts say there is no present remedy, it was explained, caused the received signal to become so faint as to be almost inaudible. A station may be picked up with the voice or music at fair volume. Gradually it begins to diminish, then slowly returns to its original intensity, only to recede again. Several theories have been offered in explanation, one of them being that some atmospheric condition absorbs the energy being sent out by the broadcaster.

SERGEANT BAUMGRASS SWEARING IN PRIVATE COOK AT ATLANTA, BY RADIO.

Leave it to the marines to start something new.

"They've done it this time with radio—gathering in recruits. The idea first struck Sergeant C. H. Baumgrass, down at Atlanta, Ga. Now it's being taken up by the marines—and the army and navy may soon be expected to follow its example—an over the country.

Baumgrass was strolling down a residential street in Atlanta, in company with William Cook, who had just been discharged from the service. They were in front of an imposing church when Cook let the remark slip—sori of nonchalance—that he almost had a mind to re-enlist. That's how he felt. In fact, he'd re-enlist just that easy. The sergeant heard no more. He dragged Cook up the steps and into the church, where the Atlanta Journal has installed a microphone for picking up the Sunday services. He called up Captain Bower, chief of the recruiting office, and asked him to go to the Journal broadcasting studio, while Cook and he remained at the church microphone.

The power was turned on, there was a crackling sound and then Capt. Bower's voice over the receiving instrument. Baumgrass put a Bible, put the dazed Cook between the receiving instrument and the microphone and was set for the ceremony.

The captain, in the Journal studio, read the oath, which Cook and the sergeant heard at the church. Cook, with one hand on the scriptures and the other raised, repeated it into the microphone at the church. The captain heard the whole proceeding at his end, approved it and Cook again was a full-fledged marine.

A minute later, Baumgrass might not have been able to recruit Cook, who might have changed his mind in that time. But the speed of radio enabled the opportunity of the moment to be grasped and used.

Any more radio rookies?

THE MODEL AND BEAUTY CONTEST

One of the most novel attractions to be staged in this city in years will be the "Model and Beauty Contest," scheduled for Associate hall on Easter Monday night, in connection with which $250 in prizes will be given away. It is planned to have the awards made by interested judges, who will select twenty girls from the floor as prospective candidates for admission to the contest. At intermission, the candidates will take positions on the stage and the audience will choose the favorites.

The management has arranged for the distribution of a ballot to every person entering the hall. This ballot will contain twenty voting spaces, ten of which must be marked to make the ballot valid. In this way balloting will be discouraged and equal opportunity afforded all contestants. In order to compete for the prizes, girls will be requested to remove their hats. Dancing will start at 8 o'clock and continue until 1 a. m. with Miner-Doyle furnishing the music.

WILL NOT BROADCAST CONCERT TOMORROW

WQAS, the Lowell broadcasting station operated by the Prince-Walters Co., will not send out any concert tomorrow night as was previously stated, as changes are being made in their sending apparatus to increase its volume to five times its present strength. It is hoped that the changes will be completed before Monday so that the program scheduled for that day will not be interfered with.

wave-length, and the most distant receiving station that has notified them of reception of their concert was one located at Newport News, Virginia.

Fred Walters, who has charge of the radio department of the store, received the following letter from a Lowell radio fan:

"Welcome to Lowell! It is a matter for rejoicing that our city is at last on the map with a radio station that ranks with the best. Broadcasts by Broderick's Merriam park orchestra come in wonderfully well. Thank you all. Hope you will find it possible to broadcast evening concerts often and at a later hour."

"I am glad that there was one firm that saw Lowell's need and answered it. All honor to Prince-Walters, the first in the field."

CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

A sentence of six months to the house of correction, suspended for two years, was imposed on Patrick J. Carling in the district court this morning on a finding of guilty to a charge of non-support, preferred against him by his wife. The latter appeared against him this morning and testified that her husband has given her but $2.80 since last February, despite the fact that the family consists of four children ranging in years from 3 months to 8 years of age. She also stated that he drinks occasionally and treats her with an air of unconcern.

At the conclusion of her testimony on the non-support charge, the wife volunteered the information that her husband obtains liquor at a house in Elm street. Carling denied, when questioned by Deputy Downey, that he was a bootlegger, and the court suggested that the owner of the alleged Elm street moonshine establishment be notified of the maintenance of a liquor nuisance there.

Agnes Richards, who was placed on probation for drunkenness last Monday, was "in" again today on a like charge. The suspension was revoked and she was ordered committed to the house of correction for a term of four months.

Released from the house of correction on March 6, Philip J. Albert was ordered returned to that institution today when he was found guilty of drunkenness and non-support. His wife stated that she hasn't seen him since his release. Albert appealed the sentence and bonds were fixed at $300 for his appearance in the superior court on the first Monday in April.

William J. Dunn of Methuen, charged with the larceny of an automobile, the property of Roland Lamy, was granted a continuance until April 6, bonds being fixed at $1200.

On a plea of guilty to a first offence for illegal keeping, Michael Perrotti was fined $100.

A threatening charge against John D. Pomerleau was dismissed, defendant being found not guilty.

BOYS FOUND BY RADIO

Boys, even radio fans, have one thing against radio. It might be used to thwart their roaming natures. When a boy is attacked by spring fever and plays hooky from school, radio comes to the aid of parents and teachers, broadcasts the boy's description—and a policeman brings him back home! This has already been done.

The distance is over 4000 miles by air and is one of the longest made in this country. The longest in that of a Los Angeles amateur who heard in England in the recent trans-Atlantic radio tests.

REDS OF VERA CRUZ DEFY GOVERNMENT

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Premier Leonide of Soviet Russia and Heron Proal, a Guatemalan, are the two protagonists of Bolshevism most revered in this city, an acknowledged hotbed of radicalism and red activity in the republic of Mexico. Proal is an agitator who is now in jail here awaiting trial, charged with inciting riot and rebellion against federal forces some six months ago. He is hailed as a martyr, and from his prison cell continues to direct his extremist campaign, which includes open revolt against government as a minor proposition.

Radicalism in its raw state may be seen here every night when parades varying in number from 300 to 2000 march through the streets, singing revolutionary songs, jeering at spectators on the sidewalk, yelling for Lenin, Trotsky and Proal, and in general defying either city or state government to halt them. All traffic is stopped and for at least an hour each night downtown Vera Cruz is turned over to the Bolsheviks.

The nightly parade is a showy and spectacular thing. Far down the street the marchers are heard coming, band blaring, voices raised in song. They round the corner and one sees an expanse of flaming banners—all of them solid red and bearing legends of adherence to Bolshevism and extolling Lenin and Proal. Men, women and children join in carrying the banners, and at regular intervals the music ceases to permit the captives to lead their cohorts in loud "vivas" for things radical.

By day, the evidences of Bolshevism are only slightly less marked. A ride through Vera Cruz discloses hundreds of houses bedecked with red flags. The pictures of Lenin and Proal in red frames and encircled by flaming banners are often found above the doors. Many enthusiasts have painted the entire house in red. For the most part these decorations indicate that the inmates belong to the "Tenants' Union" which several months ago decided that no rents would be paid in view of the fact that the landlords refused to reduce them to a figure acceptable to the union. It is said that there are at least 5000 members of the union here who have paid no rent for months. The question has been checked up to President Obregon who has indicated that he is not sympathetic with the tenants.

Every branch of the working class represented in this city is unionized. A former stevedore is now mayor of Vera Cruz. The stevedores are the strongest, and recently succeeded in tying up port activities by strike, causing immense losses to the city. Strikes and boycott are constant threats here. Demands are made of merchants and industries and if they are not met, no matter how unreasonable, labor refuses to work or buy. Numerous employers have closed down shop, and, according to a statement made to the correspondent by a reliable source, Vera Cruz business has decreased 40 per cent. within the past year.

To meet the situation the merchants of the city are attempting counter organization. An effort is being made to secure the signatures of 420 business men to protective agreement. Under the plan, if exorbitant demands are made on any member and strike or boycott is threatened all of the affiliated members would close their places of business. It is recognized that the only way this agreement could be made effective is to secure 100 per cent. adhesion.

It is an open secret that the city government of Vera Cruz and the state government at Jalapa are not decidedly antagonistic to radical activity in this port city. The one big check against wholesale aggression is the federal government which is always ready to stop untoward events. It was a clash between the radicals and federal soldiers that landed Heron Proal in jail, although many persons here feel that his work is more effective now than it was before his arrest.

WORDS OF CAPT. SMITH RULE MILLIONS

ATHENS, March 28.—When Captain John Smith, some 400 years ago, laid down the rule that the gentlemen settlers of America couldn't eat unless they worked, he set a pace which people of a much older civilization are following today in Greece as a result of the American Red Cross operations among the million or more refugees, whose plight nearly overwhelmed the country.

An application of the famous Smith rule is described in a report from the Salonika district to Col. E. P. Bicknell, director of foreign operations of the American Red Cross in Greece. In Salonika and environs there are 130,000 refugees, of whom 100,000 are being fed by American charity. The refugees in most cases are housed in huge barracks, and when the American Red Cross came in sanitation was as badly needed as food or clothing.

Each camp or refugee area was put under a director, and failure to fulfill his regulations, the refugees were told, would bring a sudden end to their food supplies. Each group of 100 people were called on to supply one man each day for the sanitation force.

They rebelled at first, but when the measures were carefully explained, the refugees saw that the forced detail was for their own good, and resentment ceased at once. The sanitary measures are but a part of the emergency relief program of the American Red Cross for which $2,000,000 has been spent in the purchase of food, and for medical and hospital supplies.

Massachusetts Still Leads

Revised figures on cotton spindles in Massachusetts as compared with states in the south, are causing lively discussion in textile circles right here at home. Sometime ago federal reports had it that spindles were increasing by such leaps and bounds in North Carolina, that the spindles down there today exceeded the amount being operated steadily in the Bay State. Although North Carolina today operates 844 cotton mills to Massachusetts' 182, on the other hand the textile spindle probers and "counters" have now discovered that on Feb. 28 last, North Carolina had 5,338,001 spindles active, whereas Massachusetts had 10,812,132. In other words, the size of the units of production is of far greater consequence than the number of units.

More to the point as a matter for the concern of Massachusetts cotton manufacturers, of course, is the number of "spindle hours" operated in Massachusetts, compared with those in the mills of North Carolina. With more than 10,000,000 active spindles operating in Massachusetts in February, this year, the state of Massachusetts shows a total of only 2,063,218,818 spindle hours compared with 1,670,373,972 for North Carolina. Thus with more than twice

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE INSTALLS OFFICERS

A feature of last evening's meeting of Lowell lodge, 618, Loyal Order of Moose, was the installation of officers, which was conducted by Junior Past Dictator Ernest H. Parsons, assisted by William T. Booth. The officers inducted into office were as follows: Elmer G. Willey, dictator; John L. Sullivan, vice dictator; Henry J. Penlon, private; John M. Hogan, treasurer; William T. Booth, sergeant-at-arms; Edgar S. Malloux, inner guard; James Brady, outer guard; Arthur H. Marble, trustee for three years and Frank J. Lambert, pianist.

Five new members were initiated and seven applications for membership were received. It was announced that special places will be reserved at the Auditorium for the members of the order at the mass meeting to be conducted by the Lowell Rotary club next Monday afternoon, as Secretary of Labor Davis, who will be the principal speaker, is a director of the Moose and founder of Mooseheart, the home for the members of the organization.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Seed and Austin were never funnier than they are at the present time, in their laughable travesty, "Things and Stuff," which is being played at the B. F. Keith theatre. There are, really, no better makers of clean burlesque than these two men, and they very deservedly headline the show. Miss Rae Eleanor Ball and her brother, Joseph, in a splendid musical act, have renewed acquaintances during their present booking. Their act is quite in a class by itself. Another superlative presentation is that of Jack Brown & Co. with Brown as Harriet Moran, a Lowell girl, who has climbed steadily up the theatrical ladder. Harriet & Patterson, in "One Night," have a very likable comedy skit, and Ethel Hopkins is a charming singer. The remainder of the bill consists of Noel Lester & Co. in about everything possible, and the Roma Duo, skating whirlers.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Dark Secrets," a stirring Paramount dramatic photoplay, is the feature attraction of the current program at the Merrimack Square theatre. It's well worth seeing. "All the Brothers Were Valiant," a Ben Ames Williams story, with Lon Chaney, is the other feature. Beginning Sunday and continuing seven days, the great Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece, "Adam's Rib," will be the leading attraction.

THE STRAND

"The Refugee," the Conway Tearle feature offering on The Strand program which opens a three days' engagement today, is a gripping tale of the prize ring and concerning the fortunes of John Meardie, a referee, who refuses to be bribed. The heroine of the story, most charmingly portrayed by Gladys Hulette, tells her dad, "Big Steve," the gambler, that she will marry Meardie or no one. She believes him to be square. Her belief in him is justified when he shows his courage in a fight which had been arranged to be crooked, and over which he was to supervise. Tearle is seen again as the vigorous type and he makes a big hit.

If any one wonders why women who have had a little hard luck in life don't get a new chance very readily, the portrayal of the cynic in "The Midnight Guest" may explain things a bit. See it. Grace Harwood is the star and she receives the support of an excellent cast.

RIALTO THEATRE

Large audiences are visiting the Rialto theatre daily and are viewing the great picture, "The Greatest Menace," which opened a week's engagement at the theatre Monday afternoon. The production is heralded as one of the biggest shown in Lowell this season and it carries a decidedly strong moral against the ill use of drugs in this country. Drug addicts are shown in their lowest hovels in an absolutely revolting manner and the lesson drawn from their scenes is enough to turn one from that unfortunate path.

FIREMEN BUSY

LAST EVENING

Outside of the two-alarm fire in Market street last evening there were no less than five other alarms, but fortunately the blaze in every instance was of a minor nature. At 6:54 o'clock a telephone alarm was sent in for a chimney fire at 15 Alder street. At 7:51 o'clock a portion of the department was called by telephone to 522 Pawtucket street for another chimney fire. At 8:27 o'clock there was still alarm for a chimney fire at 17 Manchester street. The alarm from box 124 at 10:02 o'clock was for a slight blaze in an empty tenement at 22 Mt. Washington street, caused by spontaneous combustion. Shortly before midnight a telephone alarm was received for a chimney fire at 74 South Whipple street.

DOLLAR GASOLINE HOLDS NO FEAR FOR LEWIS

EVANSTON, Ill., March 28.—It is not probable that some hitherto unknown substance will be discovered as a substitute for gasoline, according to the opinion of W. Lee Lewis, famed inventor and professor of chemistry at Northwestern University.

"The attention of scientific men and of the industries is being directed rather toward extracting more gasoline from crude petroleum and utilization of low grade sources such as the oil-bearing shales and sandstones," said Prof. Lewis. "Rapid progress is being made along the first line, that is, in the development of so-called 'cracking' processes which increase the yield of gasoline from crude petroleum. I think there is a great promise in the so-called aluminum chloride process. If one distills 10 gallons of kerosene with aluminum chloride he obtains some six or seven gallons of gasoline. The difficulty is at present to recover the aluminum chloride so it may be used over again. Chemists will solve that problem soon, however.

"Oil-bearing shales are already being utilized for gasoline and if the process goes up, will become an important industrial source.

"As for the prediction of dollar gasoline recently made in congress, don't scrap your automobile yet. When a congressman gets scientific he's like Polyphemus in love. When the price passes 40 or 50 cents per gallon, alcohol, which can be made for 25 cents per gallon can be used. The eighteenth amendment didn't cover automobiles.

"These are the lines of progress—better yields from present petroleum sources, utilization of low grade sources such as shales, better cracking processes and less waste fueling, and finally, if it comes to cases, a switching to known combustibles such as alcohol. I can't conceive of any miracle solution outside of the above with aluminum chloride he obtains lines."

PLAN OBSERVANCE OF BUSINESS MAN IS PATRIOTS' DAY ENTHUSED OVER IT

BOSTON, March 28.—Plans for the joint observance of Patriots' day, April 18, by seven towns and cities acting in co-operation with Boston, were outlined at a meeting of the executive committee of the Public Celebration association yesterday afternoon at city hall. William Carroll Hill, chairman of the Boston Patriots' day committee, presided.

It is proposed that the plans of the next two or three years be followed, with local celebrations in each of the towns and cities focused on the arrival and departure of the two horse-back riders, who will impersonate Paul Revere and William Dawes on their historic rides from Boston to Lexington.

This method of suitably recognizing the anniversary of Patriots' day was devised six years ago and has been carried through annually since by the Public Celebration association until it has now become the accepted plan of procedure.

Mayor Curley sent a letter to each mayor and chairman of selectmen of the several towns and cities concerned, namely: Arlington, Brookline, Cambridge, Concord, Medford, Lexington, and Somerville, in which he approved the plan and set forth its importance in these words:

"It is a fact of increasing significance that we are too much inclined to overlook the historical events that should keep fresh in the minds of all of us, and especially of the coming generations, the events and the principles upon which were built this nation of ours, and especially this immediate section of the nation in which we are living, here in eastern Massachusetts."

Several of the cities and towns have already designated their official representatives. Mayor Quinn of Cambridge has appointed T. Harrison Cummings, public librarian of that city. The selectmen of Brookline have named Town Clerk E. W. Baker. Lexington selectmen have named Major Alfred Pierce. The Medford representative is Joseph B. Smith. Others will be appointed this week. A meeting of the joint committee will take place April 2.

SUICIDES AMONG YOUNG PEOPLE INCREASE

NEW YORK, March 28.—The number of suicides among young people has almost doubled since the World war. Dr. Harry M. Warren, president of the save-a-life league declared in his report for 1922, made public yesterday, that from 477 juvenile suicides listed in 1919, the known total jumped to 890 in 1922, the report declared, with a probability that for every known suicide there was one self-inflicted death not so listed. The total number of suicides tabulated for the year was 18,530.

Boy suicides averaged in age 16 years, while the girls who died by their own hand averaged 15.

Discussing child suicide, Dr. Warren listed as the three principal causes, intolerable home conditions, faulty school system and temperamental disorders.

"Child marriage," he continued, "is another serious cause. In 1920 there were 1000 boys and 12,000 girls 15 years of age in the United States listed as married. Nearly 500 of them were recorded as divorced or widowed.

"Many of these children soon after marriage find that they have made a great mistake in their choice; quarrel and separate; get divorced and supply many of our suicides as well as homicides.

"Parents and teachers should educate children to avoid emotional excesses, to meet bravely the unpleasant things of life and to consider others as well as themselves."

TIGHTWAD DEFINED BY GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A "tightwad" is designated by the government as a man who saves 60 cents of every dollar and expends 37 cents of the balance for living expenses, and one cent each for education, recreation and giving.

In a little book entitled "How Other People Get Ahead," the government savings system is endeavoring to interest the American people especially in thrift.

Alongside its designation of a "tightwad" it places the spendthrift, who is described as a man who saves nothing, spends 58 cents of every dollar on living expenses, 40 cents on recreation and one cent each for education and giving.

The thrifty man is designated as one who saves 20 cents of every dollar, expends 50 cents on living and 10 cents each on education, giving and recreation.

Now is the time to get on the safe side—ward off grippie entirely or make an attack light and easily thrown off by keeping the bowels and body right through use of the true family laxative

Dr. True's Elixir

This laxative, famous for over 70 years, helped many in their fight against influenza in past years. Contains no harmful drugs; mild in action and a proper cleanser of the intestinal tract which must be taken care of if you want to guard against INFLUENZA or grippie. Herbs used in Dr. True's Elixir are imported and of strictly pure quality.

MISSOURI FARM RICH IN GOLD AND SILVER

EXETER, Mo., March 28.—A number of leases in southeastern Missouri have been sold in the last few weeks as the result of the discovery of gold, silver, copper and zinc on the farm of G. S. Johnson, near here.

About a year ago, while drilling a well, a golden colored rock about ten feet thick, and said to have been rich in copper was found by workmen. Beneath this rock, it was stated, another of a grayish hue was found. Mineralogists examined it and found it to contain silver. Johnson pulverized the rock and from 10 ounces of ore extracted about an ounce of metal.

Gold also has been found in the well, but according to Johnson, in insufficient quantities to send it away to be smelted. It is planned, however, to construct a large blast furnace and smelter here.

Johnson has leased the property to a company, and a shaft has been lowered to a depth of 70 feet. Assays of the ore are being made by the government bureau of mines.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO REV. JOHN L. CAIRNS

A farewell reception tendered Rev. John L. Cairns at St. Paul's M. E. church last evening was happily marked by the presentation to him of a beautifully carved mahogany box containing $20 in gold, the gift of the church people. Rev. Mr. Cairns leaves St. Paul's next week after a pastorate of five years, during which time the church has prospered and grown strong numerically and financially and his decision to seek a new field of labor has left a general feeling of sincere regret.

Sharing the good wishes of the church people as expressed so tangibly last night was Miss Lavina Cairns, sister of the minister, who has worked with him in Lowell in a successful effort to place and keep the church upon a high plane of achievement in the community.

The reception was held in the lower vestry, which was attractively decorated with flowers and festoons of yellow and white. At an informal social hour the pastor and his sister shook hands with the church members and other friends present and little Miss Ruth Wilson presented Miss Cairns a basket of flowers. On behalf of the church society, Abel R. Campbell made the presentation of the gift of gold to Mr. Cairns. The latter responded freely.

with a great deal of feeling and briefly reviewed his pastorate, touching "high lights" here and there that seemed to stand out as notable points in the progress and success attained.

A buffet luncheon was served by a committee headed by Mrs. Hugh Green and the church orchestra, under the direction of Joseph Killings, furnished excellent music. The entire affair was arranged under the general supervision of the Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. Abel R. Campbell, president.

TREE LOVERS BEGIN PLANTING

ALBANY, Ill., March 28.—Plans to Plant Another Tree has been incorporated as the slogan to the Tree Lovers Association of America, whose headquarters are here.

Dr. C. P. Hedrick, vice-director of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, N. Y., is president of the society, which is organized for the purpose of encouraging increased and more intelligent planting of trees, fruit trees, shrubs, flowers, vines and seeds, and to teach care after planting.

The society works with all organized efforts on the above platform "to make each community a better place in which to live" and "to make America the garden of the world." Activities are now being centered on the spring tree planting weeks which the society is promoting during the early spring months all over the country.

15,000 GERMAN MINERS STRIKE

Men in Gelsenkirchen District Quit as Protest Against Occupation

Serve Notice That They Will Not Return Until Last Soldier Leaves Mines

GELSENKIRCHEN, March 28.—(By the Associated Press) Fifteen thousand miners are on strike in the Gelsenkirchen district at all mines occupied by troops, according to estimates made in German quarters. The men quit work as a protest against the occupation.

Five thousand men are out at the Westerbelt properties, 4000 at Rheinbaben, 4000 at the Concordia mines and 2000 at the Blumenthal plants. They were served notice that they will not return to work until the last soldier leaves.

From Rheinbaben comes the report that the miners have so long in protest that the Belgians threatened to shoot unless the noise was stopped. The Germans assert semi-officially that the occupying forces are having difficulty in operating the loading apparatus at these mines, and that so far they have succeeded in loading only three or four small trains daily. Before the occupation, it is asserted, a trainload of reparations fuel rolled out every 10 minutes.

The Germans charge that in order to give a false impression of heavy coal shipments the French have begun a daily shuttle service between Ludwigshafen and Lauterberg, always using the same carloads of coal.

HELD QUARTERLY BOX OPENING

The Gorham Street Primitive Methodist church Sunday school held its first quarterly box opening last night in the church vestry. Following the opening of boxes an enjoyable entertainment was given.

Mr. Rowe gave a timely and interesting talk to the members and then announced the various numbers on the program. The total amount received last night was $94.74, with several boxes missing. Pledge division leading the rest in the amount contributed.

The program was as follows: Piano solo, Miss Mollie Kirk; violin solo, Herbert Carlson; reading, Miss Irene Matthews; solo, James Brown; violin solo, Graham Pascal; song, Joseph Higginbottom.

ADAPT STREET TO AUTO

And Auto to Street, Says City Plan Expert

By NEA Service
NEW YORK, March 27.—Streets will become safe for pedestrians and traffic more efficient only after thoroughfare have been laid out, with the automobile and its characteristics in mind.

This is the conclusion formed by Herbert S. Swan, city planner and traffic consultant of New York, who has made a thorough study of the possibilities and limitations of automobiles and automobile traffic.

"The street and vehicle using the street must be adapted to one another," says Swan. "The city planner must recognize the mechanical limitations of the automobile in laying out and regulating traffic in his streets."

At the same time, adds Swan, the automobile must be adapted to the physical limitations of the thoroughfare plan.

Swan's research has brought out the following facts:

- 1: An automobile's speed can ordinarily be reduced at the rate of eight feet a second, each second.
- 2: On a wet asphalt or concrete pavement it requires about twice as much distance to stop a car as on a dry road. On a grassy road, the distance would have to be about 10 times as great.
- 3: The fastest speed a car can go and yet be stopped in one second is 5.4 miles an hour.
- 4: The distance within which an auto can be stopped varies as the square of the speed. That is, if the speed of the car is doubled, the stopping distance is quadrupled. If the speed is tripled, nine times the ordinary stopping distance would be needed to bring the car to a halt.
- 5: The load of a vehicle has little to do with its ability to stop because the retarding effect of the brakes increases with the load.

By far the most important discovery Swan has made pertains to the effect of automobile traffic on roadway capacity.

"The common impression is that the faster the speed the greater is the number of vehicles which can pass a point in a given length of time," says

Swan. "This is true for quite low speeds. But after a certain speed has been attained each unit of increased speed requires such an increased spacing of machines that the roadway capacity is diminished."

At a uniform gait of 10 miles an hour, Swan has found, a third more vehicles will pass a given point for a given time than at a gait of 25 miles an hour. And as the speed increases, a lower number of vehicles will be found to pass the given point within the time limit.

For Better Traffic

Swan concludes his findings with these suggestions:

"The frequency of major streets, their width and grade, the sharpness of street angles and curves, the radii for rounding corners, should be determined with reference to the physical characteristics of the automobile, the anticipated volume of traffic and the particular requirements of the ground. Acceleration, deceleration, necessary clearance for different speeds, engine power, gear ratio and turning radius, although comparatively new, are nevertheless fundamental considerations in successful thoroughfare planning."

"And when it comes to regulating traffic, separating fast from slow vehicles, imposing minimum and maximum speed limits obliging traffic to round central standards at corners, stopping and starting traffic at intersections, they are controlling factors which, if ignored, will prove disastrous to the most mobile conditions of traffic."

REINALD WERRENATH COMING TO LOWELL

The announcement of the coming of Reinald Werrenath to Lowell on April 10, under the management of the Lowell Choral society means that an evening of real musical delight is in store for the music lovers. Concerning Werrenath's standing in his chosen art there seems to be no question whatever. For several years past his recitals in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and others of the largest cities have been counted among the most important features of the season and now this has come true of Lowell where two seasons have been able to establish him as firmly as in any city of his native country. A fine, sincere and many artist, like Werrenath is destined to success.

BILLS, BILLS, BILLS!

Auto Laws of All Kinds Proposed in Every State

More than a quarter century after the production of the first automobile, laws are still being considered to regulate it, tax it, curb it and—rarely—help it.

In California alone, the present session of the legislature is considering 78 bills more or less directly concerned with the automobile. One bill out of every five presented to the Illinois legislature is an auto measure. Ohio representatives are swamped with auto bills, and so it goes in practically every state in the Union.

Most of the bills being considered in the various states may be listed under these five subjects:

1. Gasoline tax.
2. License limitation.
3. Compulsory insurance.
4. Laws governing accessories.
5. Speed regulation.

The most popular class is the first. There is hardly a state which has not already passed, or is considering, a gasoline tax. And this in spite of the fact that a federal injunction has been drawn against collection of the tax in Arkansas and that the supreme court is considering its validity. California, in fact, has two bills that would levy taxes on motor vehicle tires as well.

Bills to limit the weight of trucks are intended not so much for taxation purposes as for the maintenance of highways. Heavy fines are proposed for overweight vehicles. In Texas, if one bill became law, a truck owner would have to pay duty based on the weight of the truck, so that a 50-horsepower vehicle would be taxed $25.

Compulsory insurance is gaining headway throughout the country. The law proposed in Massachusetts seems fair and is favored by the motor clubs. By it, the state would charge every motorist $10 a year and insure him for $5000. That would furnish more than $4,000,000 as an insurance fund to start with.

Auto accessories are denounced by the various legislatures. Such, for instance, as requiring a mechanical signal to show which way the autist intends to turn, or one requiring a radiator cap attachment showing a green light to the left and a red light to the right of the driver. This is one of the freak bills proposed in Illinois.

Speed regulation is still the bugaboo of autists. While, in some states, bills would raise the speed limit from 30 to 35 miles an hour on state highways, another would limit it to 25 miles and make a jail sentence mandatory if a driver is convicted of exceeding this limit. Another bill would require the installation of a governor on each engine to control the car's speed.

"PATRIOTS WEEK" FOR ARMY AND NAVY CLUB

"Patriots day" has become "Patriots week" for the Army and Navy club at 10 Park square, Boston, and a campaign for comradeship and wider support is planned for the week of April 15 to 21.

Lowell is helping by holding a rummage sale on April 18 under the direction of Mrs. John Donahue, assisted by Mrs. John Jacob Rogers. The campaign opens in Boston by a benefit performance of "The Fool" at the Selwyn theatre April 16, followed by a reception to be given to the representatives of the war and navy departments from Washington, the commanding officers of the First Corps area, the First Naval district, Coast Artillery district and Marine Corps, the governor of Massachusetts and the mayor of Boston, at the Army and Navy club house, 10 Park square.

WRETCHEDLY NERVOUS WOMAN

Was Depressed and Irritable—Now Well and Always Cheerful

"Some time ago I had a very serious nervous breakdown. I became so weak, fretful, irritable and excitable that the least thing made me tremble as though I had a chill. I was utterly unable to control my emotions and a clap of thunder would make me shriek from terror. I finally became so depressed, seditious and debilitated that I sometimes felt actually ashamed of myself."

I began taking Wincarnis and after a very short time the improvement in my whole condition was really startling. Everyone commented on it. Today my appetite is excellent, I sleep soundly and cheerfully all the time and have an abundance of energy. I do wish that every nervous or run-down woman could know what a wonderful tonic and restorative Wincarnis is.

Nantasket Scene of Desolation

of firemen last night to save them by deluges of water poured on in a freezing temperature. The flames were fought in a bitterly cold northwest gale which swept up from the sea, driving the flames inland.

Started in Palm Garden

The fire started in the Palm Garden of Paragon Park, where workmen had been busy yesterday, preparing for the summer season. Fanned by the wind it swept south and west toward Hingham, igniting as it passed, part of the wooden structure supporting the high roller coast of the park, and completely demolishing the Virginia Reel. The administration building and a few smaller structures were saved. President Albert A. Gibson of Paragon Park said today that the loss to the park would not exceed $200,000, and that the company would begin today to rebuild for the coming season.

Aid Called From Many Cities

Flames blown by the wind soon caught on wooden houses and cottages south of the park on the ocean side of the peninsula, and in a few minutes a number of these were ablaze. By this time it had been recognized that the blaze was beyond control and had been summoned from Boston, Brockton and the neighboring towns of Cohasset, Weymouth, Hingham, Quincy and Rockland.

While stretches of open land, coupled with the topographical features of the peninsula, aided firemen in preventing the spread of the fire to the Cohasset line. A small fire did start in Cohasset from flying embers, and the Cohasset apparatus was recalled to protect the town. For a time it was feared that the flames would sweep over Green Hill to Cohasset but they did not make great headway over the hill.

Among the buildings that were for a time threatened with destruction were the large Atlantic Hotel, the Warwick Inn, the Villa Napoli, the new town hall, the Danton school, and the combined fire hall and police station. The latter took fire a number of times but was finally saved. Although considerably damaged by both fire and water.

Hurley Home Destroyed

Among the homes destroyed was that of J. J. Hurley, on a hill overlooking the beach and Nantasket avenue, considered one of the show places of the South shore. In many instances the flames had engulfed the small houses before the occupants had time to save even their personal belongings. One man arrived home just in time to save his automobile and his dog, while another lamented that he had left his watch in a pocket of a coat at home, when he went to see the fire. Some of the houses were occupied while many were summer cottages and unoccupied at this season.

Two Soldiers Injured

The only injuries reported were those to two soldiers who were struck by a speeding automobile while marching at the rear of a column on Nantasket avenue.

The work of caring for those temporarily made homeless was undertaken by more fortunate neighbors and by the Salvation Army, which had temporary headquarters erected on the scene not long after the fire had gained its headway. The army workers aided the refugees and carried coffee and sandwiches to the fire fighters.

Spontaneous Combustion Causes Fire

Spontaneous combustion in a paint shop near the bandstand in Paragon Park, was believed by police and fire department officials to have started the fire which last night and early today destroyed buildings covering an area of about a square mile in the Nantasket Beach section of this town. None of the hotels that dot the hills overlooking the ocean was burned. The Atlantic Hotel had a narrow escape when the mansion of John J. Hurley, nearby on Rockland Hill, one of the most elaborate residences in the town, was destroyed. Mr. Hurley placed his loss at $150,000. The damage to the Paragon Park buildings was estimated at $200,000.

The pier of the Nantasket Beach

Steamboat Co., on Hull Bay, was at a safe distance from the flames which the wind carried in the opposite direction.

'FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH' IS FOUND BY SCIENCE

European Discovery, Really Used at Home, Restores Vigor Quicker Than Gland Operations

Those who suffer from nerve weakness and lack of vigor will be interested in a European discovery which restores full physical power quicker than gland operations. It is a simple home treatment in tablet form, absolutely harmless and yet the most powerful invigorator known. Acting directly on important nerve centers, glands and blood vessels, it often produces amazing benefits in 24 to 36 hours and gratifying results within a week. Physicians say it gives speedy satisfaction in cases that defy all other treatment. Elderly people declare it is a real "fountain of youth."

Distributed under the trade name of "Korex compound," the discovery has been tested thoroughly in America and the manufacturers have received a veritable shower of letters of praise and gratitude from revitalized men and women in every state. Patients past and present testify that the compound quickly restores to them the vigor of the prime of life.

Knowing that this news may seem "too good to be true," the distributors invite any person needing the compound to take a double-strength treatment, sufficient for ordinary cases, without the understanding that it costs nothing if it fails. If you wish to try this guaranteed invigorator, write in strict confidence to the Melton Laboratories, 45 Massachusetts Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. You may receive $2 or simply send your name, without money, and pay the postman $2 and postage on delivery. In either case, if you report "no result" after one week, the laboratories will immediately refund your money. This offer is guaranteed by ample bank deposits, so nobody need hesitate to accept it.—Adv.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Mar. 29.—Whenever the farmer wants rain, he will get it.

Whenever the sport fan wants sunshine, he will have it.

Yes, weather will be supplied hereafter as desired, even though the sun and clouds threaten to spoil the day for farmer or fan.

This promising possibility comes from tests already proved successful at Dayton, O., and at Langlin field, here, in which army aviators have been able to bring on rain or to dispel threatening clouds. The experiments are being conducted under the supervision of Prof. Wilbur D. Bancroft of Cornell University and Prof. L. Francis Warren of New York.

Bancroft and Warren do not claim they can make rain or dispel clouds in every instance, but they have so far succeeded to produce the desired results in most attempts made.

In one of the experiments conducted here a wind-driven generator was used to charge a load of sand with

Mr. Taft Helps Starving

Autograph Collector

By HARRY HUNT

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Stenographers and typewriting machines have made the life of the collector of autograph letters a thorny one, according to Chief Justice William Howard Taft, former president.

Taft, who from early manhood preferred dictating to a young lady to scratching out letters laboriously with his own hand, has been informed that there are very few autograph epistles of his extant. In fact, because of this an admirer was moved to solicit one. Obligingly, as always, Taft complied—replying in part as follows:

"I suppose stenography has become the bane of autograph collectors. It helps the dispatch of correspondence but it does not contribute to brevity or to a good style. I hope this may serve your purpose. The only way I can autograph letters is to write them. I have none in stock."

And now the "collector" who received Taft's handwritten note is offering it for sale—for $50!

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply really and quickly made. Saves about

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly stops the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, whooping cough and other ailments.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Ice in Canal Threatens Disaster

genuine alarm signals were sounded in the mill district.

First, masses of heavy, jagged ice does appeared suddenly in the big Merrimack canalway that connects with the Pawtucket canal and winds its way through the city and then returns through the Massachusetts Cotton mills district and runs up along the Boott and Merrimack and thence into the river once more.

At 7 A. M. a call was sent out for every regular and square mill yard man to get the long poles on the ends, and prepare for action along the canals. The first masses of swiftly-moving broken ice came alone lifted up in bunch for mation, and along many stretches of the canals, there were bad jams that made hard work for the pole men.

It was below zero when the men got the summons to attack the ice cakes and break up the piles of floating masses that threatened to break through the iron screens that guard the water wheel channels and keep away canal debris. Between East

Merrimack street and the main entrance of the Massachusetts mills, and on the other side of the entrance along the canalway leading to Bridge street and the Boott mills, more than 50 mill employees were stationed with iron hooks and poles, trying to keep the ice cakes moving along.

The masses of ice that swung through the Massachusetts mill yards, making the turn under the roadways that lead to the offices, became blocked early, necessitating much hard work on the part of the workmen with the long poles.

From the very first, it was almost a mystery where the ice actually came from. First, heavy flows came sailing down the canalway into the Merrimack canal before 7 o'clock. From that hour until nearly 11 o'clock—nearly four hours—the gang of river men called to the fray, had the hardest kind of work to keep the ice from getting into the water wheel areas and clogging mill operations.

Long telephone poles were pressed into service and held tightly with chains and hooks and poles by the workmen, the poles acting as a floating protection in turning the heavy cakes of ice aside as they swung around the curve in the canalway and moved onward down the stream and thence into the Merrimack river.

Overseer Charles S. Burnard of the Massachusetts Cotton mills had charge of the canal operations this morning, assisted by Charles Ally, foreman, and a big rank of men who have a splendid exhibition of protective work under abnormal weather conditions and against real odds.

In other sections fed by the canal and branches, the ice was heavy this morning and required constant work all the morning hours on the part of extra workmen to keep the ice cakes moving and prevent disasters to water wheels and other mill machinery using water.

Some damage has been reported in at least one large textile mill recently as a result of heavy river ice coming down stream and injuring structural foundations here and there where mills are located close to the Merrimack river waters. Considerable work has had to be done in one area where the spring waters and debris damaged a retaining wall and this has had to be promptly repaired.

Sacha Guitry Tries Twice to Score—And Fails

Too much of the theatre to be highly interesting in a theatre.

"Pastor" is notable as a play because it hasn't a single woman in the cast. It lacks dramatic action, since it deals with incidents in the life of the great scientist. It not only lacks dramatic action—it lacks drama.

Guitry set himself to the task of idealizing a man of science by making a dramatic figure of that man. Drinkwater did the same sort of thing much more effectively with Abraham Lincoln.

When Drinkwater had completed his delineation of Lincoln he had put upon the stage a living character—something that breathed and seemed worthy of the audience's emotional reactions. Guitry hasn't put enough flesh and blood into his model of Pasteur. After all, the Pasteur he puts upon the stage is only Henry Miller doing his best to make the mummy live.

All that one knows about Pasteur from the play is that he hated doctors and loved little children and that he discovered a serum to prevent hydrophobia.

"Barnum Was Right" seems to be a hybrid of "The Tavern," "The Bar" and a musical comedy. It is a farce concerning the efforts of Donald Brian to gain enough money to win Marion Coakley's father's consent to their marriage. He capitalizes a nut's belief that Spanish treasure is cached in a Long Island house and turns the house into a hotel. Money-mongers, a chorus queen—and various others register, with rights to search for the treasure.

Denman Maye is the nuttiest nut I've seen this season. His introductory line is always "What seems to be the trouble?" It may become as famous as "What's all the shooting?" from "The Tavern."

This marks Donald Brian's first effort in a non-musical play. On several occasions the stage seems set for a song but it is never forthcoming.

BLOOD SO THIN LIPS WERE PURPLE

Mrs. Peabody Says That Tonic
Treatment Restored Her Health
and Strength

Stomach trouble is often caused by thin blood but in such cases the cause is not always recognized. In cases of indigestion when there is pallor of the cheeks and lips it is well to tone up the blood before trying way to cure of organic stomach trouble.

"My blood was very thin," says Mrs. Dora A. Peabody, of No. 1221 Elm street, Manchester, N. H. "Till my lips were purple. My stomach was upset and everything I ate distressed me. I had a heavy feeling, like lead in my stomach. My heart would beat so fast that I got afraid. I had no appetite, lost strength and was so nervous that I seemed I would fly to pieces. Sleep did not rest me and I was tired all the time."

"Nothing helped me until I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and gave them a trial. As I used these pills my blood got richer and I had a better color. I gained strength right along and my whole system seemed to build up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and I do not think I would be alive but for them. This statement is absolutely true and I hope it will help others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful in anemia or thin blood, nervousness and its more aggravated forms of sick headache, neuralgia, sciatica and neuritis. They give new strength and vigor and if you need this tonic you should get a sixty-cent box from your nearest druggist today and begin the treatment.

Write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the helpful booklet, "Building Up the Blood." It costs you nothing—Adv.

GERMANY RESUMES ORIENTAL TRADE

BERLIN, March 28.—Germany is rapidly regaining its trade in the far east, in spite of the fact that its islands in the Pacific were taken away by the Versailles treaty, and business interrupted for years by war conditions and the deportation and internment of its business men.

For the first nine months of 1922, Germany sold Japan goods valued at $8,500,000 yen. In 1923, German exports to Japan for the entire 12 months aggregated only $5,000,000 yen. The yen is worth about 36 cents.

In 1921, Germany sold China goods valued at 20,000,000 taels. An increase is anticipated in the figures for 1922 which German exporters believe will make the year's business greater than that of 1921, which was 23,300,000 taels. The tael is worth about one dollar and forty cents.

Before the war Germany had business.

two thousand and five thousand citizens in China engaged in various commercial pursuits. It is estimated now that two-thirds of these are again in China, endeavoring to re-establish their business connections. German consuls have been back in all the principal business centers of China for some time, including the Tientsin concession which Japan wrested from Germany at the beginning of the great war, and which has recently been evacuated by the Japanese and turned back to China.

Germany's ambitious plans for vast territorial possessions in the Pacific, which might form the basis for great naval and commercial power, have been defeated, at least for the present, by the loss of Tientsin, the Marshall and Caroline Islands, New Guinea and other south sea possessions. But German steamship lines have resumed their sailings to the orient and are making an effort to regain their lost business.

SOAKING ~ takes the place of rubbing This new kind of soap soaks the dirt out

Just by soaking in the suds of this new soap, the most ground-in dirt is gently loosened and dissolved.

Even the dirt that gets absolutely ground-in at cuff edges, hems, knees and elbows of children's clothes, is so loosened by soaking in Rinso suds, that it comes out with only a light rubbing. Do that light rubbing with Rinso. A little sprinkled on the worst spots will make them disappear.

Not a thread is weakened. The mild cleansing suds work gently through and through the clothes without injury to a single fibre.

Use Rinso in the washing machine to get whiter clothes in a shorter time. You will find it saves even the little rubbing you may be doing now.

Use it in the boiler if you boil white cottons. Its big, bubbling suds make the clothes sweeter.

Use Rinso in the washing machine to get whiter clothes in a shorter time. You will find it saves even the little rubbing you may be doing now.

You do not need to change your usual washday habits. Just use Rinso wherever you used to use bar soap. Rinso does the whole job. You need no soap powder or any other soap if you use Rinso.

Rinso is made by the world's largest soap makers—the makers of Lux. For the family wash it is as wonderful as Lux is for fine things.

Get Rinso today. All the grocers and department stores have it in two sizes—the regular package and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., 164 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.

THESE men advise the public to use Rinso in their washing machines just as the textile manufacturers advise the public to wash their fabrics in Lux. "Rinso suds stand up permanently. They penetrate the water so that every garment is saturated with Rinso solution." That's what the president of the Gainaday Company says.

The president of the Coffield Company writes: "Tried out over a period equivalent to seven years' weekly use, Rinso did not corrode or injure the machine in any way. It can be used with absolute safety. Garments were not weakened by prolonged washing with Rinso."

MARION COAKLEY IN "BARNUM WAS RIGHT"

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, March 29.—Sacha Guitry reached Broadway's first base twice this week, with "The Comedian" and with "Pastor." In each instance he failed to score.

Belasco used a lot of strategy in an effort to score with "The Comedian." He sent Lionel Atwill to bat in the title role, gave the play an excellent cast and effective staging, but when the side was retired "The Comedian" was no further advanced than second base.

The blame is Guitry's. "The Comedian" isn't of big league caliber.

Atwill, Guitry, Belasco and a play about an actor—it seemed as though another "Deburau" were on the way. But "Deburau" compared to "The Comedian" was a Babe Ruth, to continue the baseball metaphor.

"The Comedian" deals with a notable of the Parisian stage who hates to grow old. He marries an 18-year-old girl. He places her as his leading woman in a revival of one of his hits. The first night was enough of that for him. She would have to quit her part. Very well, then, she'll quit him, too. All right, quit he, I'm wedded to my art, he replied, in effect. And there's the play. It is highly amusing in spots, especially when the players run up and down the aisles during a rehearsal scene, but the whole thing smacks

GLENN HUNTER

MARY ASTOR

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, March 28.—Saw Lew Cody, the be-vamp of the films. Says a film actor's life is like that of a frenzied, rushing from studio to studio, taking his work where he finds it. Saw Mae Murray and Rod LaRocque, who looks like Monte Blue, in "Jazzmania." Mae's acting almost brought on an attack of St. Vitus dance. Saw Irene Rich, Harry Myers, Marie Prevost and Monte Blue who looks like Rod LaRocque, in the film sacrifice of "Dance." Such a cast and such a story deserved better treatment. Saw Henry Miller in "Pastor" a dramatic monologue to the French scientist by Caria Gutry. Episodes in Pastor's life as shown in the play were not intimate enough to be deeply interesting. Saw Joe Jefferson O'Neill of W. J. Hay's office, Howard Dietz and Don Clarke, Goldwyn publicly hounds, and none of them asked me to print a story. Saw Lionel Atwill and others in "The Comedian" another play by Gutry. Some of the players had their moments, but the play had no great moment of its own. Saw President Harding laugh after he had missed an easy punt on a Florida links, but I couldn't hear what he said, if any thing. It is in such moments as this that lack of voice is a decided detriment to the screen. Saw Francis M. Hugo, the new "Will Hays" of non-theatrical film concerns. If you're interested in promoting the community film theatre idea, that is, the idea of getting selected pictures for selected audiences, it seems to me that there is the man to help you. Saw Denham Malev, Donald Brian, Marion Conkley, Edd Markey, Lilian Tashman and others in "Baronum Was Right," a farce with a musical comedy subplot built on the assumption that one sugar bites every minute. Wasn't that what Baronum said? Saw "The Love Habit," a French farce, unusual in that it retains its Parisian tang despite its translation into English. James Remick, occasionally in the movies, has a leading role in it. Glenn Hunter seems to be in a fair way of attaining the place I predicted he would reach within the year. The prediction that he would be one of the screen's brightest stars is only a few weeks old, but Hunter has just been signed to a five-year starring contract with Famous players. Under his contract Hunter is given great leeway in selecting the stories for his pictures and the directors. His first film will be based on F. Scott Fitzgerald's "This Side of Paradise." Fitzgerald is writing the continuity. Mary Astor, who appeared with Hunter in "Second Fiddle" and "The Cradle Buster," has also been given a five-year contract with Famous players and will be leading woman in "This Side of Paradise." Hunter is a pantomimist of rare ability. He is a distinctive screen type and is reminiscent of the late Bobby Harrison. Miss Astor, who is still in her teens, has been trained from childhood by her mother for a photoplay career. Many of our prominent novelists deliberately write typical movie stuff into their stories in order to reap the extra profit of having their stories screened. Publishers are frank in saying that this does not improve the literary quality of their books. The frankness of Talbot Mundy is refreshing. He lets it be known that he is writing stories for Thomas H. Ince to use for screen material and is taking their publication as novels as the secondary consideration. He even admits that Bradley King, the Ince scenarist, helps him evolve the plot of his stories. Together they are now completing "The Devil's Own." Forest City, Pa., plans a homecoming week this summer for Pat O'Malley, screen actor, and S. L. Rothafel, impresario of the Capitol theatre, New York, said to be the largest movie house in the world. O'Malley formerly earned $15.00 a day as a miner in Forest City and Rothafel conducted a small theatre there.

SIMS BLAMES PRESS FOR UNPREPAREDNESS

FRESNO, Cal., March 28.—America lacks the proper kind of preparedness and the American press is largely responsible, declared Admiral William S. Sims, in an address here last night. "There is not a competent military critic on any newspaper in the United States, while on the other side, there isn't a newspaper without one," asserted Admiral Sims. "When the Washington conference was held and when the four power treaty was signed it was 'front page stuff' for the newspapers. And every newspaper had to make some comment on the disarmament question. If they knew what they were talking about, all right, but if they didn't you had to read it anyway."

SEN. CREESE ADDRESSES THE SUGAR SITUATION LOWELL AD CLUB

Senator Walter T. Creese, of Danvers, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon and meeting of the Lowell Advertising club in Middlesex hall yesterday. Mr. C. D. A. Grasse presided at the meeting. Music was furnished during the luncheon by Miss Daisy Willis of the Song Shop. Charles Keyes entertained with several new vocal selections.

One of the features of the Ad club's activities next week will be a night at the Opera House. After the play a buffet luncheon will be served and dancing enjoyed.

The club voted its support to the Lowell Driving club in their plans for holding a fair on August 20, 21 and 22. Roger Gates is chairman of a committee for this purpose.

An educational night will be held at the Auditorium soon at which several films of an educational nature will be shown.

Plans are also being made for a golf tournament among the members of the club.

Major Tooley, C.A.C. U.S.A., spoke shortly on the Organized Reserves, and the necessity of such a reserve army as a protective force for this country's defense. He outlined the nature of this Organized Reserve, and the man who is needed to fill the positions open in this service. He also spoke of the fact that most countries of the world had large armies under arms, and this fact only demonstrates that the world is not tired of war but is quite willing to take part in any war that may crop out.

Here Mr. Charles Clouston was introduced as the chairman of the day, and he introduced Sen. Walter T. Creese, an old employee of the Lowell Tannery, and now located in Danvers, whose subject was "Taxation."

Mr. Creese, who is 35 years old, and of the prominent residents of Lowell in that day, he also paid tribute to the Lowell Advertising club. "There comes before the committee on taxation," he said, "a great many schemes for the evasion of taxes or of making the burden less heavy on certain classes. We do our best to avoid such pitfalls. In regard to taxation on real estate and other very tangible property, there are many bills presented which, without careful study might develop into troublesome things. We have had a bill before us reading exemption on personal taxes from $2000 to $1500. That bill was full of dynamite. We felt that $2000 was little enough for a man to live on and if there was to be any limit we felt that this was low enough. We gave this bill leave to withdraw.

"We had that very popular bill regarding poll taxes for women before us this year. We figured that 68 per cent of the women were married, and that 14 per cent more were widows, so we gave the introducer of the bill leave to withdraw because in more than half of these cases it would be the man who would very likely have to pay the tax."

Sen. Creese also spoke of a bill providing for each automobile owner having to have an assessor's slip or receipt of tax-bill before he could get a registration for his machine. The purpose of this bill was to get the people who hold off buying cars until April 2, thereby being exempt from paying a tax on his machine for a year. "Last year," he said, "we spent $7,000,000 on roads, and yet every time we try to do something in the legislature to lessen the burden of the expense of these roads from the shoulders of those who do not own automobiles, every time the auto organizations protest and protest. They protest too much for, if we want good roads we must be willing to help pay the bills."

"Another matter we had during this term of the legislature was the hearing concerning telephone stock, as to whether or not it should be taxed on the company, as it is now, or whether each individual stockholder should pay a tax. I think that arrangements will be made whereby we will go ahead."

"Another proposition is the 'one-twentieth of one per cent bill.' This bill is framed to prevent small subsidiary corporations whose another firm is out of the state, to dodge a just taxation. According to the way some of these corporations pay taxes now, they would pay only $75 on a business of $4,000,000. Under the new tax they would pay one-twentieth of one per cent on the total, $4,000,000."

"You hear a lot of people complain about high taxes. They are high enough, but I am going to make a statement here that will surprise you. The average tax of the commonwealth today, considering the purchasing power of the dollar, is not quite as high as it was in 1912. Expenses have increased about 100 per cent since 1912 so how can you expect the state to be run today for the same amount it was run for in 1912, it is impossible. Whenever you get so you are considering tax figures, consider them on this basis, and also remember that the most important feature in this bill is your schools, and that more people go to school and go right through high school than did back in 1912 and previously."

"The state is run on a pay-as-you-go policy now. Nearly 40 cents on every dollar received for taxes goes to public health, public welfare and mental disease treatment. 12 cents goes for legislative and other state purposes, 12 cents to education, soldiers' benefits takes about 1.9-10 cents; pensions get 1 cent; and the rest is spread out over the other state activities and expenses."

In conclusion he said, "I think Governor Cox should be commended for the thorough business-like administration he has given us."

OPPOSE NOV. 11 AS HOLIDAY

BOSTON, March 28.—After debate, the senate yesterday refused to substitute the bill to make Armistice day a legal holiday. The bill had been reported adversely by the committee on military affairs. The bill was temporarily withdrawn until the senate on a roll-call vote of 20 for, with no opposition, passed a resolution authorizing the governor to issue a proclamation for fitting observance of Armistice day.

Escaped Prisoners Are Captured

ATLANTA, Ga., March 28.—Capture of Gerald Chapman and Frank Gray, escaped prisoners from the federal penitentiary here, while attempting to break into a store near Hall, Ga., was reported today in a telephone message from Madison, Ga., officers. Chapman was said to have been badly wounded and taken to a hospital in Athens, Ga. Gray was lodged in the Athens jail.

At Least Six Months Will Elapse Before Results of Inquiry Are Known

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Although the machinery of the tariff commission already had been set in motion today to clear up one feature of the much-debated sugar situation, it was indicated that at least six months would elapse before the results of its inquiry could be made known. In a telegram last night from St. Augustine, Fla., President Harding directed that the commission establish whether the actual tariff, in helping to keep up the price of sugar to consumers. Under the flexible provisions of the act, the president is empowered to lower the import duty if conditions warrant it, and he promised to do so, if the facts developed by the commission showed the need.

MISS RAMSAY LECTURES AT NORMAL SCHOOL

Miss Emma Ramsay, instructor at the State Normal school, gave a lecture there yesterday afternoon on the subject, "The Project Method As a Means of Adapting Instruction to Present Needs." Miss Ramsay was introduced to the pupils of the school and the guests by one of the traffic managers, Miss Betty O'Donovan, who performed her duty in a very business-like manner. "What does society or environment call for today?" Miss Ramsay asked. And her answer was, "It asks for citizens who possess right social attitudes and ideals, men and women, boys and girls, who not only know, but who do and in whom doing has become a habit. It asks for wise, sympathetic, self-directing, responsible citizens."

Miss Ramsay then outlined the factors that enter into teaching. The curriculum, which includes subject matter to be taught; the method, the teachers and the pupils. Much of the success or failure can be attributed to the teacher. Memorizing merely for reciting is one way of teaching and another is to give the child full opportunity to use its imaginative powers and develop its full knowledge and skill. She teaches the method known as the problem-project method. "Since the subject matter of the curriculum is the material used in the development of the pupils, if it is going to function in arousing interest and stimulating effort, it must have certain essentials. First, it must have value for the child; that is, the child must feel some need for effort in making this material his own. The subject matter which can stimulate the feeling the plans made, and then judgment of his mental ability and interest. Such material will be found in the problems of practical life and social conditions. The second reason why the project method best meets present needs is that it is the method of procedure which is used in life. No purposeful act in life has not involved these steps: finding the evolution if it is a need, planning how to do it, following the plans made, and then judging, whether the right solution has been found."

"The third reason is that in typical projects there is no differentiation of subject matter. Geography, history, arithmetic and spelling are used, not as specific studies but as associated materials, each being a part of the whole towards the desired end. "The fourth reason why the project method best meets the demands of present day life is that it provides for the practical in education. Each problem is founded on a need of life, the solution of the problem is a contribution to practical life, actual social conditions are involved, and lastly, the project method meets the present needs because it is psychologically sound. No other method has been based to such extent by the laws of learning and conditioned by the responses in learning."

"The advantages claimed for the project method are that it creates good conditions for learning, it furnishes opportunities for the educational principles to function, it insures skill acquired in accomplishment, it abides longer because it is through whole-hearted purposeful activity, and it is more likely to function in outside life because it stimulates interests which, in turn, will develop allied interests."

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

SYDNEY, N. S., March 28.—Fearful of a joint strike by Nova Scotian steel workers and coal miners, the Sydney board of trade today called on the federal and provincial government to maintain law and order and to keep the port open in the event of an industrial strike.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Moore, today called for a full explanation of the order issued by Thomas W. Whitely, surveyor of the port of New York, permitting passengers on incoming steamers to land with one quart of liquor for medicinal purposes. Mr. Moore indicated that the order probably would be materially altered.

THURSTON, N. J., March 28.—Declaring that the attitude of the anti-Saloon league toward him has for years been one of "misrepresentation and assassination of character," former Governor E. C. Stokes today declined an invitation to meet the organization's national council, Wayne B. Wheeler, in public debate.

PEKING, March 28 (by the Associated Press).—The wave of opposition to Japan, following her recent refusal to release the ports of Dainy and Port Arthur and the surrounding territory to China, is rolling into great proportions throughout the country according to official telegraphic advices from a number of cities.

BOSTON, March 28.—Frank L. Taylor, who left his job as fireman for the Boston & Albany railroad, to become a stock salesman and eventually bank president, returned to the city over that road today, and charged with embezzling more than $200,000 of the funds of the Warren National bank of which he was president three weeks.

Adventures of The Twins

TWINS TURN TO STATUES

NICK TURNED INTO A STIFF WHITE MARBLE STATUE, AND NANCY TURNED INTO A FOUNTAIN IN THE CENTER OF A MARBLE BASIN.

"Now you'll have to give up your magic ring," said Nancy to Jack Straw, the ruler of Mix-Up Land. "Your house is in little bits and you've no place to hide."

"All right!" agreed Jack so quickly that the twins looked at each other in astonishment. He reached his hand toward his left thumb as though he were going to take the ring off, when suddenly he turned it and said:

"Gossberry Jam and Blackberry Pie, King Even-Stern's no smarter than I. Now good little ring, on the top of a mountain, turn Nick into a statue, make Nancy a fountain."

Before anybody could so much as blink an eyelid the work was done. Nick turned into a stiff white marble statue, and Nancy turned into a fountain in the center of a marble basin, water spouting out of the top of her head and falling down in sprays all about her.

At the same time the ground under them poked up until it became a mountain. There they were, high above the rest of the world. And there they were likely to stay.

But the twins could still think and talk, which was some comfort.

"We'll never get Jack Straw's ring now," exclaimed Nancy. "What will the Fairy Queen think when she hears that we couldn't turn Mix-Up Land back into Apple-Pie Land?"

"I don't know," answered Nick in a worried voice, and the other mountain around caught the echo and repeated in worried voices, "We don't know!"

But Jack Straw hadn't thought of something when he turned Nancy into a fountain. He forgot that Mix-Up Land couldn't hold any more water.

And the water soon flowed over the edge of the basin and washed the mountain away and ran all over the country and nearly washed it away too. Everybody in it had to swim or climb a tree, and having a peg-leg, Jack Straw could do neither.

"Now what shall I do?" he cried. "I believe I'm getting frightened."

DRAMATISTS TO PLAN
NATIONAL THEATRE

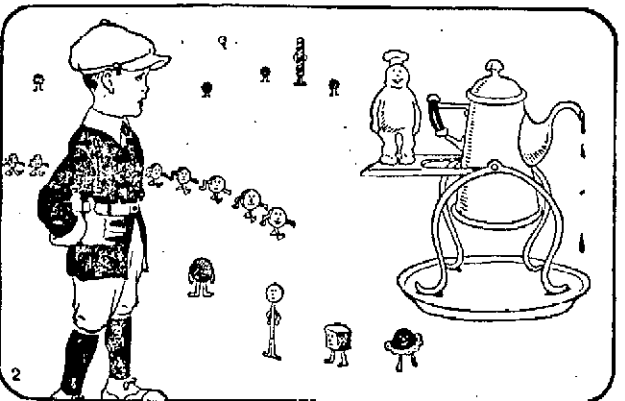

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 29.—First hand information of the movement to establish a national theatre in the United States will be brought to the members of the Drama League of America at its thirteenth annual convention at the University of Iowa, April 19, 20 and 21, when Augustus Thomas, president of the Producing Managers Association, will speak on this subject. Also this will be the first time the league has been the guest of a university.

National leaders of the amateur and professional stage will lead in the discussion of such problems as theatre prices, the scaling of the community theatre, the community circuit, the status of the drama in schools and colleges, the league and the national theatre, the league in rural communities, fluctuating theatre-going, tendencies in theatre construction and their effect on prices of seats, and the noted play Professor George D. Baker, Harvard University, will talk on the place of

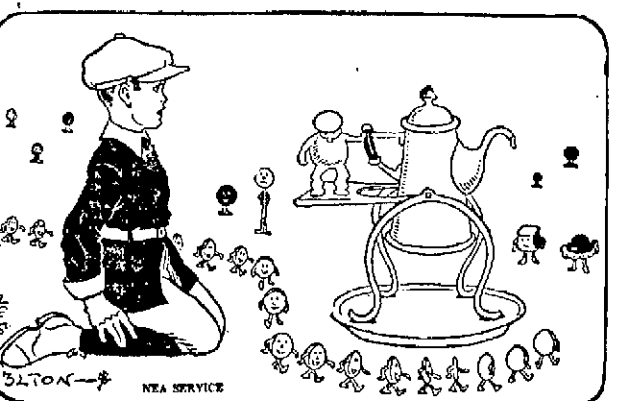

Jack Daw in Candy Land. Chapter 7

With a big dog running after them it was to be expected that the little Peppermints could not keep in line. Their march to the chocolate factory was halted while Jack grabbed hold of Flip. "Now you go ahead in safety," said Jack, and the peppermints were once more on their way.

After a short march they suddenly came upon a big, fancy-looking thing. It was a "Chocolate Pot." "This," said Caramel, "is the Candy Land chocolate factory." Then he told Jack to step aside and watch the little Peppermints have their chocolate overcoats made to order for them.

the drama in the college curriculum. Other speakers will be Mrs. A. Starr Best, Evanston, Ill., former president of the league; Theodore B. Kinckley, Chicago; Miss Alice M. Houston, Evanston, Ill.; Harold A. Ehrenspurger, Chicago, executive secretary of the league; Alfred G. Arnold, South Dakota; Miss Cora Mel Patten, and Professor Edward C. Mabee of the department of speech, University of Iowa.

Among the questions to be answered at the convention table are: How to organize a little theatre group? How much power should be vested in the director? How can adequate standards be maintained? How can the standard be adjusted to suit communities with different opportunities? How can the circuit play be taken to the small town that most needs it and yet cannot afford to pay the guarantee because of inadequate halls? How can the question of remuneration for time spent on the road be solved for busy people who ought not to give up their regular occupation?

VERDICT AGAINST
DOCTOR SET ASIDE

BOSTON, March 29.—Judge Keating of the superior court yesterday set aside the $5000 verdict awarded to Arthur E. Clarke of Malden against Dr. Clarence H. Staples, also of Malden, by a jury on March 1. The judge gave as his reason that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

Clarke was injured in an automobile accident in August, 1921, and was treated by Dr. Staples. Clarke alleges that it was due to malpractice by Dr. Staples that he has been left permanently lame. Atty. John J. O'Connor, counsel for Clarke, has filed a motion for a new trial immediately.

Judge Keating in his finding stated that the plaintiff produced a doctor as witness who showed very little knowledge of surgery, while the defendant's witnesses were all eminent surgeons who testified that the defendant was not negligent in his treatment of Clarke.

UNITE IN SEARCH FOR MURDERER

Police and District Attorney
Start on Joint Hunt for Slayer of Dorothy Keenan

Begin to Refrace Steps Each
Has Taken in Separate Investigations

NEW YORK, March 29.—United in their search for the murderer of Dorothy Keenan for the first time since the woman's body was found, two weeks ago, the police and the district attorney's office started today on a joint expedition retracing the steps each has taken in separate investigations. Every person already examined, was under recall to undergo questioning.

The two separate organizations have up until now, been proceeding on different theories. The police held the murder was the bungling of a burglar; the district attorney's office proceeded on the basis that Miss Keenan was killed in a blackmail plot against John Kearney Mitchell of Philadelphia. While Assistant District Attorney Pecora was informed by Major Draper M. Dougherty, son of the attorney general of the state, that the police asserted to intimidate him by exposing what the major says was a "casual and social" acquaintance with Miss Keenan. Mr. Pecora indicates he hasn't sufficient evidence for an arrest.

This individual has already been mentioned in the case as one of its minor figures and was very close to the dead girl, said Mr. Pecora, but that was as far as he would identify the man.

VICTORY FOR REBELS

Brazilian Revolutionaries
Capture Alegrete—Government
Forces Fled

BUENOS AIRES, March 29.—A Montevideo despatch to La Nacion says that forces from the frontier town of Rivera report the capture of Alegrete by Brazilian revolutionaries.

The town was fortified and the government forces, although in possession of several machine guns, retreated without a fight. Many of their regiments are said to have gone over to the revolutionaries.

The governor of the Brazilian state asked the commander of the loyal troops in Santa Anna do Livramento, to defend the city at all costs inasmuch as its loss would seriously jeopardize the stability of the government.

HOUSE WAS BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire, the origin of which is unknown, caused damages to the extent of several thousand dollars to the building numbered 570-580 Market street owned by Nicholas Cazanana, late last night. The blaze had made such headway when the firemen reached the premises that Chief Saunders immediately ordered the sounding of a second alarm.

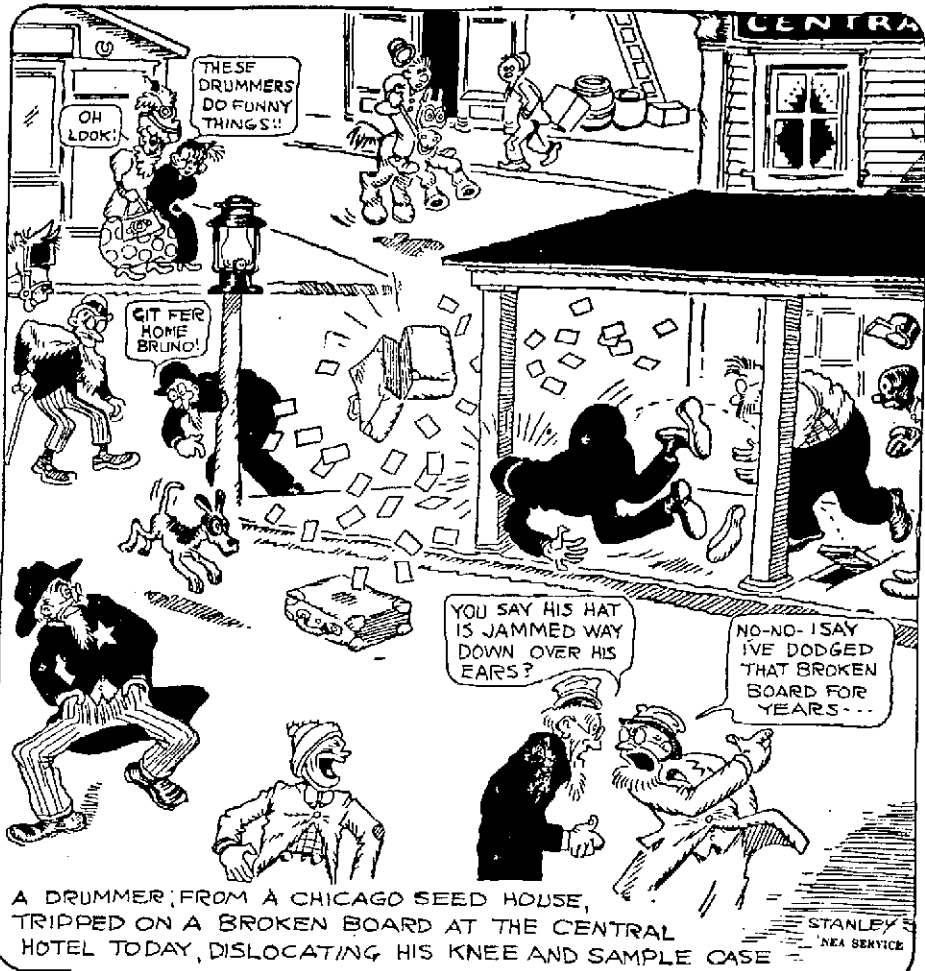

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight and an alarm was sent in from box 125 and shortly afterwards a second alarm was sent in from the same box. When the firemen reached the premises the flames were working their way through the roof and in a very short time practically the entire roof was ablaze. Several lines of hose were laid and fearing that the flames might communicate to the neighboring block, which has a single roof, the chief kept a squad of men waiting down the block.

The severe cold weather interfered with the firefighters to a great extent, but nevertheless they succeeded in keeping the fire confined to the roof and attic of the building. It was only after a half hour's work that the last spark was put out. Chief Saunders stated this morning that the building was unoccupied and that most of the partitions had been torn down.

Speaking about the origin of the fire the chief said the blaze started in the attic of the building, but he was unable to determine the cause. He said the theory of rats and matches was punctured a short time ago by experts who conducted an experiment by placing rats and various kinds of matches in a cage, and he said the experiment showed that the rats would starve to death before touching the matches. Inasmuch as there are no electric wires in the Cazanana building and that the building was unoccupied, he is at a loss to determine the cause of the fire, unless it was through spontaneous combustion, which is improbable in an unoccupied house. Mr. Cazanana did not learn of the fire until this morning at which time he was unable to determine his loss, although he believes it will be several thousand dollars.

TWO FIRE ALARMS THIS FORENOON

There were two fires this forenoon, one in Lakeview avenue and the other in Willie street. The Centralville fire was in a six-tenement block owned by a Mr. Marshall of Lawrence and located at 754 Lakeview avenue. The fire was caused by the drawing out of frozen water pipes in the cellar and before it was extinguished, it had worked its way to the second floor via the partitions. The firemen were summoned by an alarm from box 622. The other fire was on the roof of the house numbered 40 Willie street for which an alarm was sent in from box 19. The damage was slight.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS TO BE RESUMED

GENEVA, March 29. (By the Associated Press.)—The peace negotiations between the allies and Turkey will be resumed at Lausanne some time between April 15 and 20. This announcement was made today by the secretariat which the powers left at Lausanne at the conclusion of the recent conference.

The announcement said that the opening session would probably be held on the last named date. Inasmuch as the secretariat was recently notified to prepare to leave for Constantinople, the sudden change in scene is considered proof of the conciliatory attitude of the Turks. It is understood here that the negotiations will be resumed at the point where they were dropped when the Turks and allies failed to reach an agreement.

DO YOUR EASTER MAILING EARLY

Do your Easter mailing today. This advice comes direct from Postmaster Dellese who states that anything mailed after tomorrow morning, at latest, for delivery on Saturday would most likely be delivered after Easter. In a statement to The Sun reporter today he said: "In view of the lack of appropriations for overtime work and the heavy Easter mail, it is quite certain that on Saturday we will be unable to make two complete mail deliveries in some of the residential districts of the city."

Under the system in use when appropriations are large enough to permit it, on a day when mail is extremely heavy, days before holidays such as Easter and Christmas, supernumerary postmen are called in to make a delivery on each of the large residential routes, and the regular men quite often are compelled to work more than the eight hours set by the government as a day's work. Until the end of the fiscal year, June 30, the postmaster has received instructions to cut down on all such extra work and if necessary cut down on the regular deliveries rather than allow the men to work any overtime, or to employ any substitutes except when absolutely necessary.

Athol Man Perished in Fire

ATHOL, March 29.—Roy E. Russell, a grocer and luncheon owner, was burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed a small building located near the Boston & Maine R. R. trucks from which he served lunches to railroad employees. The building was nearly destroyed when the fire was discovered, and the body of Russell was found in the ruins. He served a lunch at 3.30 o'clock and was not seen alive afterward. During the winter he had formed the habit of sleeping in the building the better to serve his customers.

NEW MARCH WEATHER MARKS

Winter Returns With Vigorous Kick and Sends Temperature Down Below Zero

This Morning the Coldest Ever Experienced in Boston So Late in March

BOSTON, March 29.—Winter, several days gone by the calendar, returned last night with such a vigorous kick, that it sent the temperature in New England shooting downward to new records for this season of the year. In this city, there was a minimum of four degrees above zero, reached at 6 o'clock this morning, making it one of the coldest mornings of the year and the coldest ever experienced here so late in March since the weather bureau began keeping tabs on the thermometer.

Under the system in use when appropriations are large enough to permit it, on a day when mail is extremely heavy, days before holidays such as Easter and Christmas, supernumerary postmen are called in to make a delivery on each of the large residential routes, and the regular men quite often are compelled to work more than the eight hours set by the government as a day's work. Until the end of the fiscal year, June 30, the postmaster has received instructions to cut down on all such extra work and if necessary cut down on the regular deliveries rather than allow the men to work any overtime, or to employ any substitutes except when absolutely necessary.

The coldest was accentuated by a westerly gale. In Boston the maximum wind velocity during the night was 21 miles an hour, but a few miles outside the city it was much greater.

10 Below at Biddeford
RIDDEFORD, Me., March 29.—Local thermometers registered from 4 to 10 degrees below zero this morning. The

WILLIAM ALLARD ARRAIGNED AGAIN

William J. Allard, now awaiting trial for an alleged attempt at felonious assault on a 16-year-old Chelmsford boy in a Middlesex street judging that his last man was again arraigned in the district court this morning on an additional charge of carrying a dangerous weapon. The case was continued until April 2.

100 Gallons of Alcohol Seized

squad, who had been advised of the whereabouts of the liquor by federal officials from Boston, who have been working in this vicinity for the past few days.

When questioned as to the presence of the alcohol on the premises, the men are alleged to have told officers that it was purchased from an unknown man yesterday at the wholesale price of $11 a gallon. Frechette denied that he was the purchaser. Charnard also denied at first that he was the owner, but later admitted the fact in the district court.

According to information gained by the arresting officers, the liquor tested over 180 proof. It was planned, said, to "split" it three times and offer it for sale at twenty-five cents a drink, which would make its total valuation considerably in excess of the original wholesale price. Large cans were used for containers.

EARL CRITICALLY ILL
CAIRO, March 29.—Although the physicians attending the Earl of Carnarvon issued no bulletin today, it is understood that his condition is critical, the infection having reached his lungs.

Dispatches to London newspapers last night said that the Earl had suffered a relapse and that his condition was causing great anxiety. He is suffering from blood poisoning.

snow is still so deep in the woods that lumbering operations are impossible in western Maine.

30 Below in Adirondacks
SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., March 29.—The cold wave hit the Adirondack region in earnest today, driving the mercury down to 30 degrees below zero.

Connecticut Valley Shivers
SPRINGFIELD, March 29.—Temperatures of two below zero throughout the Connecticut valley in this state and southern Vermont, with unofficial figures considerably below that point, made today one of the coldest late March days in many years. A high north wind that did some damage to trees added much to discomfort.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPES PRELATES STILL HELD IN PRISON

Two Women in Different Parts of Nashua Just Escaped Being Killed

NASHUA, N. H., March 29.—Two women in different parts of the city miraculously escaped death today, both accidents being the result of last night's sub-zero weather. Mrs. C. T. Holt was called by a neighbor to a telephone. She had just stepped out of her kitchen when the hot water front of the cooking range blew up, wrecking the room.

Mrs. Abby Caldwell had taken a wood basket into the cellar when the front of her cook stove blew out. Interiors of both kitchens looked to firemen as if shells had exploded, cast iron pieces of the stoves being driven into the walls. Both explosions were caused by water having frozen in the stove fronts during the night.

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF ILLEGAL SALE

Nicholas Makis was found not guilty of illegal sale and ordered discharged when the case had been heard in the district court this morning. Judge Wright stating that the defendant's appearance in court was merely a subterfuge on the part of other persons to avoid the consequences of a second conviction. As a result a complaint will be issued against the sister and brother-in-law of Makis, the other parties concerned in the affair.

Officer Jerome Cullen, on the witness stand, testified that, in company with two other officers, he visited defendant's premises at Adams and Cross streets about 11.45 on the evening of March 18. He saw one individual by the name of "Bill" had been employed to go to the house with a marked bill and attempt to secure liquor. "Bill" and the bill entered the house, and when the transaction was in progress, and the marked bill exchanged, and the "Bill" signalled the officers and they entered in time to witness the passage of a bottle of alleged moonshine from one of the occupants of the room to "Bill". Their search then revealed the sign, "Bill" and the marked bill could not be located, the one of the possessor claiming to have destroyed it.

Lawyer D. J. Donahue asked the testifying officer to disclose the identity of "Bill", but the officer replied that he knew him only by sight and that his last name was "Makis". "Bill" signalled the officers and they entered in time to witness the passage of a bottle of alleged moonshine from one of the occupants of the room to "Bill". Their search then revealed the sign, "Bill" and the marked bill could not be located, the one of the possessor claiming to have destroyed it.

Coldest Spring Day

coal men who lowered prices with the coming of winter spring (continues today with winter breaking all record tapes and still going strong.

Ancient records were never so low for this time of the year with spring supposed to be here and winter gone. The books show that on March 28, 1884 it was only 27 above zero. In 1873 it was 20 above on the same March day, and in 1857 the glass registered was 21. Today's minimum temperature smashes all 50-year records easily and citizens of the line realized it when they got up this morning to light the fires and saw the windows covered with December-brand frost.

Many small ponds, brooks and water courses were covered with new ice this morning. The rush of the upper country waters down the Merrimack prevented much ice forming on the shore lines of the big stream, however.

The intense cold was particularly uncomfortable yesterday, last night, and this morning because of the rough wind which at noon yesterday reached an official velocity of 47 miles an hour. The gale continued all day and during the evening.

Forecasters of the weather bureau predict rising temperatures this afternoon, with increasing cloudiness tomorrow, warmer weather sure to come and probably rain or snow by tomorrow night. Much warmer weather of the morning after the night. The seniority gentle spring variety is due Saturday, rule governs the bidding.

Appeal for Clemency to Be Considered by Central Ex- ecutive Committee

demned is Applicable

(By the Associated Press.)—The appeal for clemency of the Catholic prelates and priests sentenced last Monday, will be considered at the first meeting of the central executive committee to be held either tomorrow or next week, the Associated Press was informed this afternoon by the government's amnesty department committee. Meanwhile the temporary stay of sentence for the condemned is applicable and they will remain in prison.

Home Arrivals Word

ROME, March 29. (By the Associated Press.)—Ecclesiastical circles were eagerly awaiting word from Moscow today in the hope that the Soviet government having granted a stay of execution in the cases of Archbishop Zelinski and the other convicted prelates, would take cognizance of Pope Pius' request that they be liberated.

The Telegrams received here from Warsaw indicate that the Russian church hierarchy and are therefore his subjects. Church officials recalled that the Moscow government's assurances before the trial that no capital sentences would be carried out, had been renewed in conclusion, and word that the executions have at least been delayed, served to relieve their fear somewhat.

Prof. Walsh, head of the South Russian pontifical relief mission, has been delegated to take charge of the negotiations with the soviet.

JUNIOR Y. M. H. A.
ELECTS OFFICERS

An interesting meeting of the Junior Y.M.H.A. was held last evening with President H. Greene in the chair. The meeting was largely attended and considerable business was transacted. A feature of the meeting was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Harold Greene, president; Hyman Greenbaum, vice president; Geo. Bloom, financial secretary; J. Muskin, recording secretary; Edith Ziskind, appointed on the publicity committee. Routine business was transacted and a debate was held, the topic being "Resolved that the Y.W.H.A. Junior should combine with the Y.M.H.A. Junior." The negative side of the debate was taken up by Edith Ziskind, George Bloom and M. Solomon, while B. Gerson, Y. C. Gaher and M. Greene argued in the affirmative. The judges were Max Cohen, H. Ostroff and J. Cantor, and their decision was in favor of the negative. The meeting was brought to a close with entertainment numbers.

TORRINGTON, Conn., March 28.—The cold wave was felt throughout the Litchfield hills today. In New Hartford, a temperature of 10 degrees below zero was recorded and in Goshen it was 5 below.

SOVIET RUSSIA'S NEW INCOME TAX LAW

MOSCOW, March 29.—Under Soviet Russia's new income tax law, a man receiving more than a month's salary will pay 8 per cent of the surplus to the government. Income below 1,250,000,000 rubles or about $2 a month at present rates of exchange are not subject to taxation, but from $2 on up, the tax ranges from 5 to 50 per cent. Allowances are made for wives or children in America and ration or quarters furnished by the government are counted as income and also subject to this taxation.

Omer Allard, clerk of the election commission, and having to do with the alleged statement made to him last fall by Mr. McKenna at a time when Plan B petitions were being certified by the commission, is sufficient in strength to call for a new list of eligibles which would not include the name of the present temporary out-

At a meeting of the Auditorium trustees some two weeks ago Mayor Donovan declared he had evidence at hand which he felt might have bearing on the eligibility of Mr. Mackenzie and, therefore, no action was taken upon the eligible list forwarded by the clerk. The name of Mr. Mackenzie was, therefore, not included in the list. In order to allow the mayor to present this evidence in some form to the civil service commission and extension of the time of the certification was requested and granted, which would keep the original eligible list in effect until early in April.

In due course of time the mayor filed his evidence in affidavit form with the commission, who after examining it, feels there is not sufficient justification to warrant a withdrawal of the list and therefore, it stands and an election therefrom undoubtedly will occur next Monday evening.

Mayor Donovan said today he has no personal feelings against Mr. McKenna, but simply offered evidence that was submitted to him, which he felt it his duty to do.

He reiterated his intention to vote for the name on the eligible list, which is Mr. Sullivan.

ent No. 2 mill in the main yard and the new building.

In announcing this definite expansion program, which the company officials are ready to present to the city council for its consideration, the Saco-Lowell Shops withdrew its request for a spur railroad track across Dutton street, but in order to transport manufactured machinery from new buildings to the shipping department in the main yard without seriously interfering with vehicular traffic in Dutton street, an overhead bridge-way will be a necessity and therefore is announced in the construction plans.

Three Buildings in Group
The expansion plans do not stop with the immediate erection of the buildings mentioned, however, for the 400-foot structure along Dutton street will be so built as to allow continuance for an additional 100 feet, which would carry it to what is now Kilson street.

Further plans, all of which, by the way, now are being prepared by the engineering firm of Lockwood-Greene Co., call for the erection of another building in back of the first one and its replica in size. This second building would be so built as to cover the entire back side of the tract as far as the Locks and Canals land on the other side of Worthen street and between the two buildings would be an alleyway of approximately 50 feet in width, to be smooth-paved and used as a trucking space and for whatever storage might be necessary in the operation of the new plant.

When the Saco-Lowell Shops first outlined what it proposed to do upon this tract of land, provided the city gave its permission to the closing of Worthen street, plans called for the erection of a three-story building along Broadway, but this has been found not to be advisable as the necessary length and resulting floor space would not be adequate to the needs of the company. Therefore, the new plans call for the 400-foot building fronting on Dutton street and its twin directly behind it, both running parallel to that thoroughfare.

First Building Within One Year
Engineers have estimated that the first building could be ready for occupancy eight months after work was started, but local officers of the company feel this statement a little too optimistic and are inclined to set the time of erection at one year from the date permission to close the street is granted.

The drop-forging building and the building along Dutton street will be in the process of erection at the same time, for forgings from the drop forge shop would be used in the manufacture of machinery in the main building.

The moment the Dutton street building becomes ready for occupancy 500 men would go there to work. Some of these would be taken from departments in the present plant, now seriously congested and over-crowded, while others would be new mechanics. With the entire expansion plan completed opportunity will be afforded for the employment of between 800 and 1000 new workmen.

would house some congested departments now in the old plant, allow for a centralization of several branches of manufacture and also would provide for the manufacture of French worsted machinery, a line recently taken over by the Lowell shops.

Agent Feaster said today the number of employees of the company depends entirely upon space in which to work and that without expansion the present number of 2700 employees cannot materially be increased.

"We should like to employ 3700 men instead of 2700," said Mr. Feaster, "but we have not the necessary space in which they might work." He added that at present 300 men are working all night in an effort to maintain production schedules and said this would not be necessary if adequate floor space was available.

How Widely Would Be Used
Speaking of the proposal to throw a covered steel suspension bridge over Dutton street, Mr. Feaster said it would run from the third story of the new building to the third story of what is now known as No. 2 building in the main yard. It would be sufficiently above the street level to clear with considerable space to spare all wires and would in no manner constitute a menace. Virtually, it would place both plants under one roof and while it would be used principally by electrically driven industrial trucks, employees would use it while passing from one section of the plant to the other.

The Saco-Lowell operates a large fleet of very short trucks of three tons capacity and they would become the only medium by which machinery could be transported from the new mill to the shipping room.

"I realize that it will cost a lot of money and use up much valuable time if we are obliged to truck all our finished machinery from one side of Dutton street to the other through this bridge," said Agent Feaster, "but it will do away with a grade crossing and will remove all the trucks from Dutton street and we are willing to now on the truck extending from Broadway, along Dutton street to Kilson and on both sides of Worthen street."

"Our first concern," said Agent Feaster, "would be to find suitable homes for the persons now living in these houses." Excavation would follow immediately and then the erection of the first building fronting on Dutton street.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. They are yellow medicine, sold to a medicine, a medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who have been in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other Kilmor remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in curing kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents, also mention this paper. Large and extra size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

We are now looking to the gymnasium for leaders in a big democratic organization in the form of an athletic league. A great deal of interest has been shown by the girls and we hope that it will result in conscientious work and constructive planning. The children's classes are now selling chocolate for a pair of scales, which are much needed by the department. The money is not available so far in the budget.

Outside contacts: Massachusetts cotton mill, Miss Allen seen. Miss Allen requested a gym class and approached the mill girls with that in view. Not much interest was shown and the matter was dropped.

A visit was also made to the telephone building and an interesting interview with Miss Snow, chief operator, resulted.

On account of irregular hours it is almost impossible to interest the girls in a regular gym class.

A class in recreation was formed for 12 Syrian girls at the request of Miss Gates at the Central Methodist church. The girls were such poor attendants that the class was dropped. Work is being given them under the church and Syrian school.

The Greek girls showed great aptitude toward American ways at the gym, and some of them were transferred to the American class.

Our department is still hoping for more concentration on the health phase of the work. It is hoped that this branch can be developed next year.

Respectfully submitted,
MILDRED MARTINS,
Director of Physical Education.

THOUSANDS ANXIOUS TO LEAVE EUROPE

VIENNA, March 29.—Austrian emigration, which was almost negligible during the greater part of the world war, is reviving rapidly, and one after the other all the steamship agencies formerly represented in the "Austro-Hungarian" capital are reopening their doors for business. The lack of funds for rail and ocean travel alone is forcibly staying a rush from Austria on a huge scale.

Asked what had stimulated this emigration fever, the secretary of an important trades guild said it could be summed up in one word, "despair."

"Young and old, trained and untrained," he said, "males and females, want to get away, and the sooner the better. The opportunity to get away, I am told, is not taken advantage of by those for whom there is room in the United States and South America, namely, agricultural laborers, miners and the like."

"The people eager to quit the country are the retired officers of the former Austro-Hungarian army, civil servants, skilled factory hands, and thousands upon thousands of young women of a good class who filled the ranks of the military and naval forces."

AUSTRIAN FINANCES NOW ON FIRM BASIS

LONDON, March 29.—More has been accomplished to place Austria on a sound financial basis in the past few months than could have been done in 50 years without outside aid. The League of Nations has accomplished this, and the result of its efforts has been called miraculous by the leading financial experts of Europe. The Austrian committee of the league, reporting recently to the general council, made these statements.

Not only has the money of the country been stabilized, but it has been possible to arrange for the floating of an external loan, 50 p. c. of which is covered by government guarantees and the remaining seven p. c. to be provided by other nations. London financial houses have expressed the opinion that the loan could be raised within a very short time, and virtually all of it in England.

It is an important fact that, in addition to facilitating the loan, the allied powers and certain of Austria's neighbors are entering into commercial agreements with her designed to end the isolation which has been in force since the war.

The Austrian chancellor, Dr. Seipel, said recently that the attempt to restore his country's economic life would have been doomed to failure at the outset if undertaken by any organization other than the League of Nations. He cited as proof of returning confidence the fact that more than 90,000,000 gold crowns had been raised internally during the past five months. Not a fraction of that sum would have been subscribed had not the hopes of the people been raised by the work done at Geneva.

been creating an immense amount of wealth, and that wealth has not been exported to any considerable extent.

In the main Germany has been re-equipping all her industries, and is now probably the most efficient manufacturing country in the world. Her shipowners, industrial magnates and great working population have built up once more a merchant fleet to carry the vast products of the country to all the markets of the world.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-coated tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They do not injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headache, "biliousness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "tired" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits; lax and soothe.—Adv.

SILENT NIGHTS HELP DISTANCE HEARING

CHICAGO, March 29.—"Silent nights," when local radio broadcast stations forego the presentation of programs, inaugurated a week or so ago, have resulted in many records of long distance reception, according to a compilation of reports made here recently. Monday nights were temporarily adopted by the Chicago broadcasters for the experiment in response to many requests from radio fans for a "silent night," and will be continued, it was said, unless the popular demand wanes.

A plan whereby "silent nights" be adopted by broadcasting stations throughout the country has been discussed following the inauguration of Chicago's silent nights. Under this plan stations in certain districts would not broadcast on Monday night, another district would not send on Tuesday night, and so on throughout the week. It was pointed out that in this way the entire country would have a silent night once a week.

Objection to "silent nights" has been raised by radio fans owning crystal detector sets, which ordinarily are capable of receiving telephone signals for a distance of only 25 miles. It is estimated that from one-third to one-half of the radio telephone receiving sets in Chicago use crystals. Only receivers using audio bulb detectors are certain of long distance reception.

Inauguration of "silent nights" has brought prominently to the radio fan's attention the phenomenon of "fading," encountered only when listening to far away stations. "Fading," for which radio experts say there is no present remedy, it was explained, causes the received signal to become so faint as to be almost inaudible. A station may be picked up with the voice or music at fair volume. Gradually it begins to diminish, then slowly returns to its original intensity, only to recede again. Several theories have been offered in explanation, one of them being that some atmospheric condition absorbs the energy being sent out by the broadcaster.

RADIO GIVES MARINE RECRUIT NO CHANCE TO RENIG

SERGEANT BAUMGRASS SWEARING IN PRIVATE COOK AT ATLANTA, BY RADIO.

Leave it to the marines to start something new. They've done it this time with radio—gathering in recruits.

The idea first struck Sergeant C. R. Baumgrass, dignitary at Atlanta, Ga. Now it's being taken up by the marines—and the army and navy may soon be expected to follow its example—all over the country.

Baumgrass was strolling down a residential street in Atlanta, in company with William Cook, who had just been discharged from the service. They were in front of an imposing church when Cook let the remark slip, sort of nonchalantly—that he almost had a mind to re-enlist. That's how he felt. In fact, he'd re-enlist just that easy.

The sergeant heard no more. He dragged Cook up the steps and into the church, where the Atlanta Journal has installed a microphone for picking up the Sunday services. He called up Captain Bower, chief of the recruiting office, and asked him to go to the Journal broadcasting studio, while Cook and he remained at the church microphone.

The power was turned on, there was a crackling sound and then Capt. Bower's voice over the receiving instrument. Baumgrass got a Bible, but the dazed Cook wasn't receiving the instrument and the microphone and was set for the ceremony.

The captain, in the Journal studio, read the oath, which Cook and the sergeant heard at the church. Cook with one hand on the scriptures and the other raised, repeated it into the microphone at the church. The captain heard the whole proceeding at his end, approved it and Cook again was a full-fledged marine.

A minute later Baumgrass might not have been able to recruit Cook, who might have changed his mind in that time. But the speed of radio enabled the opportunity of the moment to be grasped and used.

Any more radio rookies?

THE MODEL AND BEAUTY CONTEST

One of the most novel attractions to be staged in this city in years will be the "Model and Beauty Contest," scheduled for Associate hall on Easter Monday night, in connection with which $250 in prizes will be given away. It is planned to have the awards made by disinterested judges, who will select twenty girls from the floor as prospective candidates for admission to the contest. At intermission, the candidates will take positions on the stage and the audience will choose the favorites.

The management has arranged for the distribution of a ballot to every person entering the hall. This ballot will contain twenty voting spaces, ten of which must be marked to make the ballot valid. In this way balloting will be discouraged and equal opportunity afforded all contestants. In order to compete for the prizes, girls will be requested to renounce their hats. Dancing will start at 8 o'clock and continue until 1 a. m. with Miner-Doyle furnishing the music.

WILL NOT BROADCAST CONCERT TOMORROW

WQAS, the Lowell broadcasting station operated by the Prince-Walters Co. will not send out any concert tomorrow night as was previously stated, as changes are being made in their sending apparatus to increase its volume to five times its present strength. It is hoped that the changes will be completed before Monday so that the program scheduled for that day will not be interfered with.

This station sends out on a 360 meter wave-length, and the most distant receiving station that has notified them of reception of their concert was one located at Newport News, Virginia.

Fred Walters, who has charge of the radio department of the store, received the following letter from a Lowell radio fan:

"Welcome to Lowell! It is a matter for rejoicing that our city is at last on the map with a radio station that ranks with the best. Broadcasts by Frederick's Merrimack park orchestra come in wonderfully well. Thank you all. Hope you will find it possible to broadcast evening concerts often and at a later hour.

CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

A sentence of six months to the house of correction, suspended for two years, was imposed on Patrick J. Carrigan in the district court this morning on a finding of guilty to a charge of non-support, preferred against him by his wife. The latter appeared against him this morning and testified that her husband has given her but $2.00 since last February, despite the fact that the family consists of four children ranging in years from 3 months to 8 years of age. She also stated that he drinks occasionally and treats her with an air of unconcern.

At the conclusion of her testimony on the non-support charge, the wife volunteered the information that her husband obtains liquor at a house in Elm street. Carrigan denied, when questioned by Deputy Downey, that he was a bootlegger, and the court suggested that the owner of the alleged Elm street moonshine establishment be notified of the maintenance of a liquor nuisance there.

Agnes Richards, who was placed on probation for drunkenness last Monday, was "in" again today on a like charge. The suspension was revoked and she was ordered committed to the house of correction for a term of four months.

Released from the house of correction on March 6, Philip Jalbert was ordered returned to that institution today when he was found guilty of drunkenness and non-support. His wife stated that she hasn't seen him since his release. Jalbert appealed the sentence and bonds were fixed at $300 for his appearance in the superior court on the first Monday in April.

William J. Dunn of Methuen, charged with the larceny of an automobile, the property of Roland Lamy, was granted a continuance until April 6, bonds being fixed at $1200.

On a plea of guilty to a first offense for illegal keeping, Michael Perrin was fined $100.

A threatening charge against John D. Pomerleau was dismissed, defendant being found not guilty.

REDS OF VERA CRUZ DEFY GOVERNMENT

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Premier Lenine of Soviet Russia and Heron Proal, a Guatemalan, are the two protagonists of Bolshevism most revered in this city, an acknowledged hotbed of radicalism and red activity in the republic of Mexico. Proal is an agitator who is now in jail here awaiting trial, charged with inciting riot and rebellion against federal forces some six months ago. He is hailed as a martyr, and from his prison cell continues to direct his extremist campaign, which includes open revolt against government as a minor proposition.

Radicalism in its raw state may be seen here every night when paraders varying in number from 200 to 2000 march through the streets, singing revolutionary songs, cheering at spectators on the sidewalk, yelling for Lenine, Trotsky and Proal, and in general defying either city or state government to halt them. All traffic is stopped and for at least an hour each night downtown Vera Cruz is turned over to the Bolsheviks.

The nightly parade is a showy and spectacular thing. Far down the street the marchers are heard coming; hand clapping, voices raised in song. They round the corner and one sees an expanse of flaming banners—all of them solid red and bearing legends of adherence to Bolshevism and extolling Lenine and Proal. Men, women and children join in carrying the banners, and at regular intervals the music ceases to permit the captains to lead their cohorts in loud "vivats" for things radical.

By day, the evidences of Bolshevism are only slightly less marked. A ride through Vera Cruz discloses hundreds of houses bedecked with red flags. The pictures of Lenine and Proal are framed and encircled by flaming banners are often found above the doors. Many enthusiasts have painted the entire house in red. For the most part these decorations indicate that the inmates belong to the "Tennant Union" which several months ago decided that no rents would be paid in view of the fact that the landlords refused to reduce them to a figure acceptable to the union. It is said that there are at least 5000 members of the union here who have paid no rent for months. The question has been checked up by President Obregon who has indicated that he is not sympathetic with the tenants.

Every branch of the working class represented in this city is unionized. A former storekeeper is now mayor of Vera Cruz. The storekeepers are the strongest, and recently succeeded in tying up part activities by strike, causing immense losses to the city. Strikes and boycott are constant threats here. Demands are made of merchants and industries and if they are not met, no matter how unreasonable, labor refuses to work or buy. Numerous employers have closed down shop, and, according to a statement made to the correspondent by a reliable source, Vera Cruz business has decreased 40 per cent. within the past year.

To meet the situation the merchants of the city are attempting counter organization. An effort is being made to secure the signatures of 420 business men to protective agreement. Under the plan, if exorbitant demands are made on any member and strike or boycott is threatened all of the affiliated members would close their places of business. It is recognized that the only way this agreement could be made effective is to secure 100 per cent. adhesion.

It is an open secret that the city government of Vera Cruz and the state government at Jalisco are not decidedly antagonistic to radical activity in this port city. The one big check against wholesale aggression is the federal government which is always ready to stop untoward events. It was a clash between the radicals and federal soldiers that ended Heron Proal in jail, although many persons here feel that his work is more effective now than it was before his arrest.

rest. He has even syndicalized the prisoners and on a recent national holiday succeeded in staging a celebration aided by smuggled liquor, that almost ended in a jail delivery.

The newspaper "El Dictamen," one of the oldest in the republic, has been threatened with destruction many times and several weeks ago an attempt was made to force the editor to suspend publication following a clash with the governor of the state. It is understood that a hint from the national police in Mexico City caused the governor to reconsider.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Boston dispatches in the Daily News Record, present the annual report of the Merrimack manufacturing company for the past year, as compared with the previous year:

Assets 1922, (fixed) $4,690,450; 1921, $4,545,455. Merchandise 1922, $2,822,304; 1921, $2,785,357. Accounts receivable 1922, $1,618,138; 1921, $1,499,630; cash 1922, $508,515; 1921, $610,553. Securities (1921) $57,246.

The liabilities show a capital stock at the end of 1922 of $4,400,000, the same as a year ago. Mortgages in 1922 amounted to but $15,000. Accounts payable were $12,505 and notes payable $1,475,000 as against accounts and notes payable in 1921 of $1,610,414. Profit and loss last year are given as $3,575,638, with practically the identical figures the year before. Reserve for dividends at the close of 1922 was given as $32,580, same as in 1921, and the reserves for federal taxes last year $106,660 against a sum of $50,578 in 1921.

N. E. Cotton Statistics

The New Bedford storage warehouse company today announced in connection with its campaign to increase general storing of cotton in New England, that New England cotton mills including Lowell's are now consuming an average of 220,000 bales per month.

On March 1, with virtually seven months to go before new crop cotton is expected to arrive in quantity, the stocks on hand in New England were hardly more than 800,000 bales in consuming establishments and public storage. Probably not more than 125,000 bales of this was unsold spot cotton.

New England really needs nearly 800,000 bales more between now and fall. Much of this it is now believed, will be bought as spot or transit cotton, which is now in demand in Lowell and other textile mill points.

Textile men are notified today by the Lowell public warehouse company that storing cotton in Lowell is more profitable today and freight bills can be cut by shipment and storage here.

It is announced that Lowell is today the only important cotton storage center in New England having storage-in-transit privileges on all-rail cotton, as well as on water-and-rail shipments. It is also the only important point to which cotton can be shipped under this privilege from any point in the south via any route.

Revised figures on cotton spindles in Massachusetts as compared with states in the south, are causing lively discussion in textile circles right here at home. Sometime ago federal reports had it that spindles were increasing by such leaps and bounds in North Carolina that the spindlesage down there today exceeded the amount being operated steadily in the Bay State. Although North Carolina today operates 344 cotton mills to Massachusetts' 182, on the other hand the textile spindles "probers" and "counters" have now discovered that on Feb. 28 last, North Carolina had 5,333,000 spindles active, whereas Massachusetts had 10,812,132. In other words, the size of the units of production is of far greater consequence than the number of units.

More to the point as a matter for the concern of Massachusetts cotton manufacturers, of course, is the number of "spindle hours" operated in Massachusetts, compared with those in the mills of North Carolina. With more than 10,000,000 active spindles operating in Massachusetts in February, this year, the state of Massachusetts shows a total of only 2,063,213,318 spindle hours compared with 1,576,372,372 for North Carolina. WORDS OF CAPT. SMITH RULE MILLIONS

ATHENS, March 26.—When Captain John Smith, some 400 years ago, laid down the rule that the gentlemen settlers of America couldn't eat unless they worked, he set a pace which peoples of a much older civilization are following today in Greece as a result of the American Red Cross operations among the million or more refugees, whose flight nearly overwhelmed the country.

An Application of the famous Smith rule is described in a report from the Salonika district to Col. E. P. Bicknell, director of foreign operations of the American Red Cross in Greece. In Salonika and environs there are 130,000 refugees, of whom 100,000 are being fed by American charity. The refugees in most cases are housed in huge barracks, and when the American Red Cross came in sanitation was as badly needed as food or clothing.

Each camp or refugee area was put under a director and a committee to fulfill his regulations, the refugees were told, would bring a sudden end to their food supplies. Each group of 100 people were called on to supply one man each day for the sanitation force.

They rebelled at first, but when the measures were carefully explained, the refugees saw that the forced detail was for their own good, and resentment ceased at once.

The sanitary measures are but a part of the emergency relief program of the American Red Cross for which $2,600,000 has been spent in the purchase of food, and for medical and hospital supplies.

Revised figures on cotton spindles in Massachusetts as compared with states in the south, are causing lively discussion in textile circles right here at home. LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE INSTALLS OFFICERS

A feature of last evening's meeting of Lowell lodge, 818, Loyal Order of Moose, was the installation of officers, which was conducted by Junior Past Dictator Ernest P. Parsons, assisted by William T. Booth. The officers inducted into office were as follows: Elmer G. Wiley, dictator; John L. Sullivan, vice dictator; Henry J. Parson, president; John M. Hogan, treasurer; William T. Booth, sergeant-at-arms; Edgar S. Matloux, inner guard; James Brady, outer guard; Arthur H. Marble, trustee for three years and Frank J. Lambert, pianist.

Five new members were initiated and seven applications for membership were received. It was announced that special places will be reserved at the Auditorium for the members of the order at the mass meeting to be conducted by the Lowell Rotary club next Monday afternoon. As Secretary of Labor Davis, who will be the principal speaker, is a director of the Moose and founder of Mooseheart, a home for the members of the organization.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Seed and Austin were never funnier than they are at the present time in their laughable travesty, "Things and Stuff," which is being played at the R. F. Keith theatre. There are, really, no better makers of clean, humorous than these two men, and they very deservedly headline the show. Miss Rae Eleanor Hall and her brother, Joseph, in a splendid musical act, have renewed acquaintances during their present booking. Their act is quite in a class by itself. Another superlative presentation is that of Hank Brown & Co. with Brown as Harriet Moran, a Lowell girl, who has climbed steadily up the theatrical ladder. Hartley & Patterson, in "One Night," have a very likable comedy skit, and Ethel Hopkins is a charming singer. The remainder of the bill consists of Noel Lester & Co. in about everything possible, and the Roma Duo, skating whippers.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Dark Secrets," a stirring Paramount dramatic photoplay, is the feature attraction of the current program at the Merrimack Square theatre. It's well worth seeing. "All the Brothers Were Valiant," a R. F. Keith production, with Lou Chances, is the other feature. Beginning Sunday and continuing seven days, the great Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece, "Adam's Rib," will be the leading attraction.

THE STRAND

"The Referee," the Conway Tearle feature offering on The Strand program, which opens a three days' engagement today, is a gripping tale of the prize ring and concerns the fortunes of John Merdick, a referee, who refuses to be bribed. The heroine of the story, most charmingly portrayed by Gladys Hulette, tells her dad, "Big Steve," the gambler, that she will marry McArchie or no one. She believes him to be square. Her belief in him is justified when he shows his courage at a fight which had been arranged to be crooked, and even which he was to supervise. Tearle is given again as the vigorous type and he makes a big hit.

If any one wonders why women who have had a little hard luck in life don't get a new chance very readily, the portrayal of the crime in "Midnight Guest" may explain that. But see it, three times, and you will see and she receives the support of an excellent cast.

RIALTO THEATRE

Large audiences are visiting the Rialto theatre daily and are viewing the great picture, "The Greatest Menace," which opened a week's engagement at the theatre Monday afternoon. The production is heralded as one of the biggest shown in Lowell this season and it carries a decidedly strong moral against the illicit use of drugs in this country. Drug addicts are seen in their lowest levels in an absolutely revolting manner and the lesson drawn from their scenes is enough to turn one from that unfortunate path.

FIREMEN BUSY

LAST EVENING

Outside of the two-alarm fire in Market street last evening there were no less than five other alarms, but fortunately the blaze in every instance was of a minor nature. At 6:34 o'clock a telephone alarm was sent in for a chimney fire at 15 Alder street. At 7:51 o'clock a portion of the department was called by telephone to 523 Pawtucket street for another chimney fire. At 9:27 o'clock there was a still alarm for a chimney fire at 12 Manchester street. The alarm from box 124 at 10:02 o'clock was for a slight blaze in an empty tenement at 22 Mt. Washington street, caused by spontaneous combustion. Shortly before midnight a telephone alarm was received for a chimney fire at 71 South Whipple street.

DOLLAR GASOLINE HOLDS NO FEAR FOR LEWIS

EVANSTON, Ill., March 28.—It is not probable that some hitherto unknown substance will be discovered as a substitute for gasoline, according to the opinion of W. Lee Lewis, famed inventor and professor of chemistry at Northwestern University.

"The attention of scientific men and of the industries is being directed rather toward extracting more gasoline from crude petroleum and utilization of low grade sources such as the oil-bearing shales and sandstones," said Prof. Lewis. "Rapid progress is being made along the first line, that is, in the development of so-called 'cracking' processes which increase the yield of gasoline from crude petroleum. I think there is a great promise in the so-called aluminum chloride process. If one distills 10 gallons of kerosene with aluminum chloride he obtains some six or seven gallons of gasoline. The difficulty is at present to recover the aluminum chloride so it may be used over again. Chemists will solve that problem soon, however.

"Oil-bearing shales are already being utilized for gasoline and if the price goes up, will become an important industrial source.

"As for the prediction of dollar gasoline recently made in congress, don't worry your automobile yet. When a congressman gets scientific he's like Polhemus in love. When the price passes 40 or 50 cents per gallon, alcohol, which can be made for 25 cents per gallon can be used. The eighteenth amendment didn't cover automobiles.

"These are the lines of progress: better yields from present petroleum sources, utilization of low grade sources such as shales, better carburetors and less waste fueling, and finally, if it comes to case, a switching to known combustibles such as alcohol. I can't conceive of any miraculous solution outside of the above lines."

PLAN OBSERVANCE OF BUSINESS MAN IS PATRIOTS' DAY ENTHUSED OVER IT

BOSTON, March 28.—Plans for the joint observance of Patriots' day, April 10, by seven towns and cities acting in co-operation with Boston, were outlined at a meeting of the executive committee of the Public Celebration Association yesterday afternoon at city hall. William Carroll Hill, chairman of the Boston Patriots' day committee, presided.

It is proposed that the plans of the past two or three years be followed, with local celebrations in each of the towns and cities focused on the arrival and departure of the two horse-back riders, who will impersonate Paul Revere and William Dawes on their historic rides from Boston to Lexington.

This method of suitably recognizing the anniversary of Patriots' day was devised six years ago and has been carried through annually since by the Public Celebration Association until it has now become the accepted plan of procedure.

Mayor Curley sent a letter to each mayor or chairman of selectmen of the several towns and cities concerned, namely: Arlington, Brookline, Cambridge, Concord, Medford, Lexington, and Somerville. In which he approved the plan and set forth its importance in these words:

"It is a fact of increasing significance that we are too much inclined to overlook the historical events that should keep fresh in the minds of all of us, and especially of the coming generations, the events and the principles upon which were built this nation of ours, and especially this immediate section of the nation in which we are living, here in eastern Massachusetts."

Several of the cities and towns have already designated their official representatives. Mayor Quinn of Cambridge has appointed T. Harrison Cummings, public librarian of that city. The selectmen of Brookline have named Town Clerk E. W. Baker, Lexington selectman have named Major Alfred Pierce, The Medford representative is Joseph E. Smith. Others will be appointed this week. A meeting of the joint committee will take place April 3.

SUICIDES AMONG YOUNG PEOPLE INCREASE

NEW YORK, March 28.—The number of suicides among young people has almost doubled since the World War, Dr. Harry M. Warren, president of the psycho-analytic league declared in his report for 1922, made public yesterday. From 477 juvenile suicides listed in 1919, the known total jumped to 909 in 1922, the report declared, with a probability that for every known suicide there was one self-inflicted death not so listed. The total number of suicides tabulated for the year was 13,530.

Boy suicides averaged in age 18 years, while the girls who died by their own hand averaged 15.

Discussing child suicide, Dr. Warren listed as the three principal causes, intolerable home conditions, faulty school system and temperamental disorders. "Child marriage," he continued, "is another serious cause. In 1920 there were 1600 boys and 12,000 girls 15 years of age in the United States listed as married. Nearly 500 of them were recorded as divorced or widowed.

"Many of these children soon after marriage find that they have made a great mistake in their choice; quarrel and separate; get divorced and supply many of our suicides as well as homicides.

"Parents and teachers should educate children to avoid emotional excesses, to meet bravely the unpleasant things of life and to consider others as well as themselves."

TIGHTWAD DEFINED BY GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A "tightwad" is designated by the government as a man who saves 60 cents of every dollar and expends 37 cents of the balance for living expenses, and one cent each for education, recreation and giving.

In a little book entitled "How Other People Get Ahead," the government savings system is endeavoring to interest the American people especially in thrift.

Alongside its designation of a "tightwad" it places the spendthrift, who is described as a man who saves nothing, spends 65 cents of every dollar on living expenses, 40 cents on recreation and one cent each for education and giving.

The thrifty man is designated as one who saves 20 cents of every dollar, expends 50 cents on living and 10 cents each on education, giving and recreation.

Declares Tanlac built Him Up After Flu Until He Feels Like Old Self

Walter E. Guthrie, 20 Dumbeth St., Boston, proprietor of the printing house at 1 Chatham row, is still another proponent of the Tanlac medicine. He has derived from its use, in telling his experience with the medicine, Mr. Guthrie said:

"A severe attack of the grip the first of the year seemed to take all the life out of me and I was left in a badly run-down condition, with my stomach so fearfully out of order and my appetite so low I was scarcely eating enough to keep going. Gas and sourness made me feel miserable, constipation bothered me a great deal and I was hard to get on my feet. It was hard to settle down to business."

"I certainly found what I needed when I started on the Tanlac treatment, for it gave me a fine appetite and built me up all around. I always feel fit for business now and stand ready to endorse Tanlac every time."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitutes. Over 15 million bottles sold.—Adv.

R. R. HEAD DENIES SEN. COUSEN'S CHARGE

NEW YORK, March 28.—Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific company, has addressed a letter to Senator Cousens of Michigan, replying to his charge that the American railroads had not increased in efficiency in the last 18 years and that they were now seeking to make savings primarily by wage reductions.

In his letter Mr. Kruttschnitt asserts that Senator Cousen's assumption that the chief railway economy has been reduced wages, is mistaken, and that out of a reduction of approximately $1,000,000,000 a year in labor cost of railway operation only about $350,000,000 represents decreased wages. The balance, almost two-thirds, has been the result of efficiency and economy of operation.

In 1923 the railroads carried a traffic not greatly less than that of 1920. "To do this they employed an average of 1,445,287 employees in 1922, as against 1,012,000 in 1920," Mr. Kruttschnitt says.

That Sen. Cousen's statement that "for 18 years there has been no improvement in locomotive performance," is erroneous. The number of train miles per thousand pounds of tractive effort is not the measure of efficiency in transportation efficiency, Mr. Kruttschnitt points out. The real measure is to be found in the fact that the average number of revenue tons per train increased from 310 tons to 662 tons or 110 per cent. "By means of this increase in efficiency of handling trains the railways secured an increase of 110 per cent in ton miles with an increase of only 20 per cent in train miles."

Stating the matter in another way Mr. Kruttschnitt shows that during the past 13 years the increase in power of each locomotive, plus the increase in the number of locomotives, produced an increase of 97 per cent in the aggregate power of freight locomotives. "With only 97 per cent increase in power they moved 139 per cent more revenue ton miles," Mr. Kruttschnitt asserts.

Another gauge of the increase in efficiency of American railroads is to be found in the amount of transportation produced for every $100 of investment in railroad property. In 1890 for every $100 of investment the railroads carried 538 tons of freight, one mile, and 153 passengers one mile. In 1920 for every $100 of investment they carried 2,063 tons of freight one mile, and 281 passengers one mile, an increase of 110 per cent in freight, and 80 per cent in passenger service.

EASTER SERVICES AT STATE INFIRMARY

The musical program at the Easter Sunday services at the Catholic Chapel at the Taubert State infirmary will be featured by a group of soloists from St. Margaret's parish choir. The services will consist of a solemn high mass at which the celebrant will be Rev. Stephen G. Murray, O.M.I., formerly of St. Margaret's church and present chaplain at the hospital. The following soloists, under the direction of Miss Katherine V. Hennessy, director at St. Margaret's, will sing during the mass: Miss Euberta Johnston, Miss Catherine McEvoy, John F. Roane, Ruel Leclair and William Burns. The organist will be Napoleon Galtbault.

MISSOURI FARM RICH IN GOLD AND SILVER

EXETER, Mo., March 28.—A number of leases in southeastern Missouri have been sold in the last few weeks as the result of the discovery of gold, silver, copper and zinc on the farm of G. B. Johnson, near here.

About a year ago, while drilling a well, a golden colored rock about ten feet thick, and said to have been rich in copper was found by workmen. Beneath this rock, it was stated, another of a grayish hue was found. Micrologists examined it and found it to contain silver. Johnson pulverized the rock and from 16 ounces of ore extracted about an ounce of metal.

Gold also has been found in the well, but, according to Johnson, in insufficient quantities to send it away to be smelted. It is planned, however, to construct a large blast furnace and smelter here.

Johnson has leased the property to a company, and a shaft has been lowered to a depth of 70 feet. Assays of the ore are being made by the government bureau of mines.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO REV. JOHN L. CAIRNS

A farewell reception tendered Rev. John L. Cairns at St. Paul's M. E. church last evening was happily marked by the presentation to him of a beautifully carved mahogany box containing $320 in gold, the gift of the church people. Rev. Mr. Cairns leaves St. Paul's next week after a pastorate of five years, during which time the church has prospered and grown strong numerically and financially and his decision to seek a new field of labor has left a general feeling of sincere regret.

Sharing the good wishes of the church people as expressed so tangibly last night was Miss Lavina Cairns, sister of the minister, who has worked with him in Lowell in a successful effort to place and keep the church upon a high plane of achievement in the community.

The reception was held in the lower vestry, which was attractively decorated with flowers and festoons of yellow and white. At an informal social hour the pastor and his sister shook hands with the church members and other friends present and little Miss Ruth Wilson presented Miss Cairns a basket of flowers. On behalf of the church society, Abel R. Campbell made the presentation of the gift of gold to Mr. Cairns. The latter responded with a great deal of feeling and briefly reviewed his pastorate, touching highlights here and there that seemed to stand out as notable points in the progress and success attained.

A buffet luncheon was served by a committee headed by Mrs. Hugh Green and the church orchestra, under the direction of Joseph Ridings, furnished excellent music. The entire affair was arranged under the general supervision of the Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. Abel R. Campbell, president.

TREE LOVERS BEGIN PLANTING
PHOENIA, Ill., March 28.—"Plan to Plant Another Tree" has been incorporated as the slogan to the Tree Lovers Association of America, whose headquarters are here.

Dr. U. P. Hedrick, vice-director of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, N. Y., is president of the society, which is organized for the purpose of encouraging increased and more intelligent planting of trees, fruit trees, shrubs, flowers, vines and seeds, and to teach care after planting.

The society works with all organized efforts on the above platform "to make each community a better place in which to live" and "to make America the garden of the world."

Activities are now being centered on the spring tree planting weeks which the society is promoting during the early spring months all over the country.

15,000 GERMAN MINERS STRIKE

Men in Gelsenkirchen District Quit as Protest Against Occupation

Serve Notice That They Will Not Return Until Last Soldier Leaves Mines

GELSENKIRCHEN, March 29.—(By the Associated Press) Fifteen thousand miners are on strike in the Gelsenkirchen district at all mines occupied by troops, according to estimates made in German quarters. The men quit work as a protest against the occupation.

Five thousand men are out at the Westerholt properties, 4000 at Rheinbaben, 4000 at the Concordia mines and 2000 at the other plants. They were served notice that they will not return to work until the last soldier leaves.

From Rheinbaben comes the report that the miners have threatened to shoot unless the notice was stopped.

The German government has been difficult in operating the loading apparatus at these mines, and that so far they have succeeded in loading only three or four small trains daily. Before the occupation, it is asserted, a trainload of coal was rolled out every 10 minutes.

The German charge that in order to give a false impression of heavy coal shipments the French have begun a daily shuttle service between Ludwigshafen and Lauterberg, always using the same carloads of coal.

HELD QUARTERLY BOX OPENING

The Gorham Street Primitive Methodist church Sunday school held its first quarterly box opening last night in the church vestry. Following the opening of boxes an enjoyable entertainment was given.

Samuel Howe opened the meeting with a prayer and then introduced Harold F. Rowe as chairman of the evening. Mr. Rowe gave a timely and interesting talk to the members and then announced the various numbers on the program. The total amount received last night was $47.71, which was a record for the church.

The program was as follows: Piano solo, Miss Mollie Kirk; violin solo, Herbert Carlson; reading, Miss Irene Matthews; solo, James Brown; violin solo, Graham Pashell; song, Joseph Higginbottom.

FOR ICE SKATING TITLE
NEW YORK, March 29.—The 1923 winner of the Middle Atlantic indoor ice skating crown will be crowned tonight at the third and last of the series of events of the annual tournament. Joe Moore, Metropolitan titleholder, is expected to win, since he has an almost unbeatable lead over all his competitors, being 10 points ahead of the nearest two, who are tied for second place.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from such ailments when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

ADAPT STREET TO AUTO

And Auto to Street, Says City Plan Expert

By NEA Service
NEW YORK, March 27.—Streets will become safe for pedestrians and traffic more efficient only after thoroughfare have been laid out with the automobile and its characteristics in mind.

This is the conclusion formed by Herbert S. Swan, city planner and traffic consultant of New York, who has made a thorough study of the possibilities and limitations of automobiles and automobile traffic.

"The street and vehicle using the street must be adapted to one another," says Swan. "The city planner must recognize the mechanical limitations of the automobile in laying out and regulating traffic in his streets."

At the same time, adds Swan, the automobile must be adapted to the physical limitations of the thoroughfare plan.

Swan's research has brought out the following facts:
1: An automobile's speed can ordinarily be reduced at the rate of eight feet a second, each second.
2: On a wet asphalt or concrete pavement it requires about twice as much distance to stop a car as on a dry road. On a gravel road, the distance would have to be about 10 times as great.

3: The fastest speed a car can go and yet be stopped in one second is 5.4 miles an hour.
4: The distance within which an auto can be stopped varies as the square of the speed. That is, if the speed of the car is doubled, the stopping distance is quadrupled. If the speed is tripled, nine times the ordinary stopping distance would be needed to bring the car to a halt.

5: The load of a vehicle has little to do with its ability to stop because the retarding effect of the brakes increases with the load.

Slow Speed Patent
By far the most important discovery Swan has made pertains to the effect of automobile traffic on roadway capacity.

"The common impression is that the faster the speed the greater is the number of vehicles which can pass a point in a given length of time," says

Swan. "This is true for quite low speeds. But after a certain speed has been attained each unit of increased speed requires such an increased amount of machines that the roadway capacity is diminished."

At a uniform gait of 30 miles an hour, Swan has found, a third more vehicles will pass a given point for a given time than at a gait of 25 miles an hour. And as the speed increases, a lower number of vehicles will be found to pass the given point within the time limit.

For Easier Traffic
Swan concludes his findings with these suggestions:

"The frequency of major streets, their width and grade, the sharpness of street angles and curves, the radii for rounding corners, should be determined with reference to the physical characteristics of the automobile, the anticipated volume of traffic and the particular requirements of the ground. Acceleration, deceleration, necessary clearance for different speeds, engine power, gear ratio and turning radius, although comparatively new, are nevertheless fundamental considerations in successful thoroughfare planning."

"And when it comes to regulating traffic, separating fast from slow vehicles, imposing maximum and minimum speed limits obliging traffic to round central standards at corners, stopping and starting traffic at intersection, they are controlling factors which, if ignored, will prove disastrous to the most mobile conditions of traffic."

REINALD WERRENATH COMING TO LOWELL

The announcement of the coming of Reinald Werrenath to Lowell on April 10, under the management of the Lowell Choral society means that an evening of real musical delight is in store for the music lovers. Concerning Werrenath's standing in his chosen art there seems to be no question whatever. For several years past his recitals in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and others of the largest cities have been counted among the most important features of the season and now this has come true of Lowell where two seasons have been able to establish him as firmly as in any city of his native country. A fine, sincere and manly artist like Werrenath is destined to success.

BILLS, BILLS, BILLS!

Auto Laws of All Kinds Proposed in Every State

More than a quarter century after the production of the first automobile, laws are still being considered to regulate it, tax it, curb it and—rarely—help it.

In California alone, the present session of the legislature is considering 78 bills more or less directly concerned with the automobile. One bill out of every five presented to the Illinois legislature is an auto measure. Ohio representatives are swamped with auto bills, and so it goes in practically every state in the Union.

In the various states may be listed under these five subjects:
1. Gasoline tax.
2. Truck weight limitation.
3. Compulsory insurance.
4. Laws governing accessories.
5. Speed regulation.

The most popular class is the first. There is hardly a state which has not already passed, or is considering, a gasoline tax. And this in spite of the fact that a federal injunction has been drawn against collection of the tax in Arkansas and that the supreme court is considering its validity. California, in fact, has two bills that would levy taxes on motor vehicle tires as well.

Bills to limit the weight of trucks are intended not so much for taxation purposes as for the maintenance of highways. Heavy fines are proposed for overweight vehicles. In Texas, if one bill became law, a truck owner would have to pay duty based on the engine horsepower and weight of the truck, so that a 50-horsepower vehicle would be taxed $25.

Compulsory insurance is gaining headway throughout the country. The law proposed in Massachusetts seems fair and is favored by the motor clubs. By it, the state would charge every motorist $10 a year and insure him for $5,000. This would furnish more than $4,000,000 as an insurance fund to start with.

Auto clubs are denouncing the various "necessary bills" proposed in the state legislatures. Such, for instance, as requiring a mechanical signal to show which way the autoist intends to turn, or one requiring a radiator cap attachment showing a green light to the left and a red light to the right of the driver. This is one of the freak bills proposed in Illinois.

Speed regulation is still the bugaboo of autoists. While, in some states, bills would raise the speed limit from 30 to 35 miles an hour on state highways, another would limit it to 25 miles and make a jail sentence mandatory if a driver is convicted of exceeding this limit. Another bill would require the installation of a governor on each engine to control the car's speed.

"PATRIOTS WEEK" FOR ARMY AND NAVY CLUB
"Patriots day" has become "Patriots week" for the Army and Navy club at 10 Park square, Boston, and a campaign for comradeship and wider support is planned for the week of April 16 to 21.

Lowell is helping by holding a rummage sale on April 13 under the direction of Mrs. John Denahue, assisted by Mrs. John Jacob Rogers. The campaign opens in Boston by a benefit performance of "The Foot" at the Selwyn theatre, April 16, followed by a reception to be given to the representatives of the war and navy departments from Washington, the commanding officers of the First Corps area, the First Naval district, Coast Artillery district and Marine Corps, the governor of Massachusetts, and the mayor of Boston, at the Army and Navy club house, 10 Park square.

WRETCHEDLY NERVOUS WOMAN

"Some time ago I had a very serious nervous breakdown. I became so weak, fretful, irritable and excitable that the least thing made my heart flutter and my limbs tremble as though I had a chill. I was utterly unable to control my emotions and a clap of thunder would make me shriek from terror. I finally became so depressed, fidgety and debilitated that I sometimes felt actually ashamed of myself."

I began taking Wincarnis and after a very short time the improvement in my whole condition was really startling. Everyone commented on it. Today my appetite is excellent. I sleep soundly, am cheerful all the time and have an abundance of energy. I do wish that every nervous or run-down woman could know what a wonderful tonic and restorative Wincarnis is."

of firemen last night to save them by deluges of water poured on in a freezing temperature. The flames were fought in a bitterly cold northwest gale which swept up from the sea, driving the flames inland.

Started in Palm Garden

The fire started in the Palm Garden of Paragon Park, where workmen had been busy yesterday, preparing for the summer season. Fanned by the wind it swept south and west toward Hingham, igniting as it passed, part of the wooden structure supporting the high roller coast of the park, and completely demolishing the Virginia Reel. The administration buildings, and a few smaller structures were saved. President Albert A. Golden of Paragon Park said today that the loss to the park would not exceed $200,000, and that the company would begin today to rebuild for the coming season.

Aid Called From Many Cities

Kindness shown by the wind soon caught on wooden houses and cottages south of the park on the ocean side of the peninsula, and in a few minutes a number of these were ablaze. By this time it had been realized that the blaze was beyond control and aid had been summoned from Boston, Brockton and the neighboring towns of Cohasset, Weymouth, Hingham, Quincy and Rockland.

Wide stretches of open land, coupled with the topographical features of the peninsula, aided firemen in preventing the spread of the fire to the Cohasset line. A small fire did start in Cohasset from flying embers, and the Cohasset apparatus was recalled to protect the town. For a time it was feared that the flames would sweep over Green Hill to Cohasset but they did not make great headway over the hill.

Among the buildings that were for a time threatened with destruction were the large Atlantic House, the Warwick Inn, the Villa Napoli, the new town hall, the Danion school, and the combined fire hall and police station. The latter took fire a number of times but was finally saved, although considerably damaged by both fire and water.

Hurley Home Destroyed

Among the homes destroyed was that of J. J. Hurley, on a hill overlooking the beach and Nantasket avenue, considered one of the show places of the South shore. In many instances the flames had engulfed the small houses before the occupants had time to save even their personal belongings. One man arrived home just in time to save his automobile and his dog, while another lamented that he had left his watch in a pocket of a coat at home, when he went to sea the fire. Some of the houses were occupied while many were summer cottages and unoccupied at this season.

Two Soldiers Injured

The only injuries reported were those to two soldiers who were struck by a speeding automobile while marching at the rear of a column on Nantasket avenue. The work of caring for these temporarily made homeless was undertaken by more fortunate neighbors and by the Salvation Army, which had temporary headquarters erected on the scene not long after the fire had gained its headway. The army workers aided the refugees and carried coffee and sandwiches to the firefighters.

Spontaneous Combustion Causes Fire

Spontaneous combustion in a paint shop near the landward in Paragon Park, was believed by police and fire department officials to have started the fire which last night and early today destroyed buildings covering an area of about a square mile in the Nantasket Beach section of this town. None of the hotels that dot the hills overlooking the ocean was burned. The Atlantic House had a narrow escape when the mansion of John J. Hurley, nearby on Rockland Hill, one of the most elaborate residences in the town, was destroyed. Mr. Hurley placed his loss at $150,000. The damage to the Paragon Park buildings was estimated at $200,000.

The pier of the Nantasket Beach

Steamboat Co., on Hull Day, was at a safe distance from the flames which the wind carried in the opposite direction.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, W. Va., Mar. 28.—Whenever the farmer wants rain, he will get it.

Whenever the sport fan wants sunshine, he will have it.

Yes, weather will be supplied hereafter as desired, even though the sun and clouds threaten to spoil the day for farmer or fan.

This promising possibility comes from tests already proved successful at Dayton, O., and at Langlin field, here, in which army aviators have been able to bring on rain or to dissipate threatening clouds. The experiments are being conducted under the supervision of Prof. William D. Bancroft of Cornell University and Prof. L. Francis Warren of New York.

Bancroft and Warren do not claim they can make rain or dissipate clouds in every instance, but they have so far succeeded in producing the desired results in most attempts made.

In one of the experiments conducted here a wind-driven generator was used to charge a load of sand with

HOW AN AIRPLANE SHOOT ELECTRIFIED SAND INTO CLOUDS, TO MAKE FAIR OR RAINY WEATHER.

Observation showed that these highly charged particles made a large hole through the clouds in a fraction of a second. Finer dust particles were used for moist clouds, than those that were dispelled over fog or mist.

Rain or fair weather in these tests seemed to depend on the negative or positive electrification of the sand particles. Further tests are being conducted here to establish this point.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Mr. Taft Helps Starving Autograph Collector

By HARRY HUNT
WASHINGTON, March 28.—Stenographers and typewriting machines have made the life of the collector of autograph letters a thorny one, according to Chief Justice William Howard Taft, former president.

Taft, who from early manhood preferred dictating to a young lady to scratching out letters laboriously with his own hand, has been informed that there are very few autograph plates of his extant. In fact, because of this an admirer was moved to solicit one. Obliging, as always, Taft complied—replying in part as follows:

"I suppose stenography has become the bane of autograph collectors. It helps the dissemination of correspondence, but it does not contribute to brevity or to a good style. I hope this may serve your purpose. The only way I can autograph letters is to write them. I have none in stock."

And now the "collector" who received Taft's handwritten note is offering it for sale for $55!

Big Ulcer All Healed

"Now I Can Walk," Says Mrs. Southcott

"Here is another letter that makes me so happy," says Peterson. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big-hearted rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such mighty healing power as this."

"Read this letter by Mrs. Albert Southcott. It seems like a miracle, but it is true, every word of it. I know it because I got similar letters almost every day from people who have used my ointment for old sores, eczema and piles."

Peterson Ointment Co.
Dear Sirs:

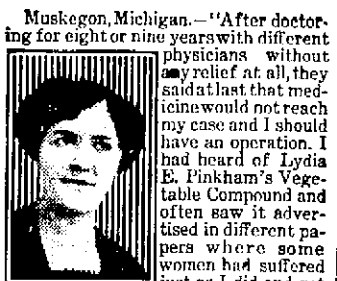

I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcer. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars' worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was a inches by 6 1/2 inches. It is healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again.

"You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Lyndonville, N. Y. Price, 35c.—Adv.

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they decided that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it the praise."—Mrs. NETTIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness; for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A simple, easily made, and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, loosens the throat and gives pure and good. Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly loosens the inflamed membranes that line the throat and give pineness, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

genuine alarm signals were sounded in the mill district.

First masses of heavy, jagged ice floes appeared suddenly in the big Merrimack canalway that connects with the Pawtucket canal and winds its way through the city and then returns through the Massachusetts Cotton Mills district and runs up along the Boon and Merrimack and thence into the river once more.

At 7 a. m. a call was sent out for every regular and spare mill yard man to get the long poles with the Canadian ice hooks on the ends, and prepare for action along the canals. The first masses of swiftly-moving broken ice came along piled up in bunch for the canalway leading to Bridge street, and along many stretches of the canals, there were had jams that made hard work for the pole men.

It was below zero when the men got the summons to attack the ice cakes and break up the piles of floating masses that threatened to break through the iron screens that guard the water wheel channels and keep away canal debris. Between East Merrimack street and the main entrance of the Massachusetts mills, and on the other side of the entrance along the canalway leading to Bridge street, and the boat mills, more than 50 mill employees were stationed with iron hooks and poles, trying to keep the ice cakes moving along.

The masses of ice that swung through the Massachusetts mill yards, making the turn under the roadway that leads to the offices, became blocked early, necessitating much hard work on the part of the workmen with the long poles.

From the very first, it was almost a mystery where the ice actually came from. First heavy masses came surging down the canalway into the Merrimack canal before 7 o'clock. From that hour until nearly 11 o'clock, nearly four hours—the gang of river men called to the fray, had the hardest kind of work to keep the ice from getting into the water wheel areas and clogging mill operations.

Long telephone poles were pressed into service and held lightly with chains and hooks and poles by the workmen, the poles acting as float-

CHANCE EXPECTS TO LEAVE CELLAR

Decides Not to Make Sweeping Changes in Boston Red Sox Lineup

Three Recruits Fighting It Out for the Shortstop Position in Braves' Lineup

BOSTON, March 28.—Manager Frank Chance, of the Red Sox, who intimated a few days ago that he intended to make sweeping changes in the team's lineup, changed his mind yesterday, according to reports from the club's training camp at Hot Springs, Ark. News from Hot Springs, Ark., that the Red Sox need look for little help from the reserve lists of other clubs, and Chance to decide that he would get along with the present roster, it was said.

With a few "breaks" Chance said, the Red Sox could graduate from cellar position on this season, and he expressed concern over the club's pitching strength. His pitchers, the manager said, seemed to be "afflicted with almost everything."

At the St. Petersburg, Fla., camp of the Braves, three recruits are competing for the shortstop assignment. Fred Adger, who was drafted from Memphis, last fall, Jucker Conlon, late of Harvard, and Bob Smith, Tedgett held the post for the first time yesterday when the reserves defeated the series, 1 to 0. His performance was pronounced creditable by Manager Fred Mitchell.

Practice in Main Street

CHICAGO, March 28.—The Chicago Americans took their spring training to Main street yesterday. Frigid temperature and ankle deep mud made a regular day's work impossible, and Manager Gleason resorted to the city street for 20 minutes of ball throwing and loosening up exercises.

The Chicago Nationals lost a training game to the San Francisco Pacific Coast leaguers yesterday when their crumpled bats were out and failed to leave third base when the ball was knocked to the outfield.

Two Pirates Unimpeded

PITTSBURGH, March 29.—Owing to the temporary incapacity of Russell and the absence of the Pittsburgh Nationals has placed Barnhart in right field for the regulars, and has shifted Schwab from third base to short for the Yankees in the intra-club games, according to advices received from Hot Springs, Ark.

In a seven inning game yesterday the regulars defeated the Yankees 5 to 3.

Athletes to Play Cardinals

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—The Philadelphia Athletics after a 13 to 2 victory over the Mobile Southern Association club, yesterday, left Mount Airy, Ala., for Hot Springs, Ark., for the first of a three game series with the St. Louis Nationals today.

Hale, Walker and Miller, by their work at bat for the Athletics, paved the way for the victory over Mobile. This trio accounted for 10 of their team's total of 15 hits. Walker had four, and Hale and Miller three each.

Yankees "Can" Hookers

NEW YORK, March 28.—Manager Miller Huggins announced at the New York training camp yesterday the release of all but six hookers of the Yankees' purchase. Three of these will be turned over to minor league clubs and the 25 player limit becomes effective.

Huggins announced the following releases: Henry Lavallee, outfielder, to the Boston Braves; Eastern League; Elton Langford, outfielder, to the Atlanta club, Southern association; George Artus, catcher, to Worcester, Eastern League; John Sauer, pitcher, to Atlanta, Southern association; Pat McKelvey, pitcher, to Albany, Eastern League; George Anderson, infielder, unconditionally released. Walters have been asked on Pichey Al Maudslayi by the Brooklyn club because he failed to abide by disciplinary rules, charged Charles J. Heltz announced at Clearwater, Fla.

Summa "Beaten" By Grimes

CLEVELAND, March 28.—Homer Summa, who was struck on the hand by a ball pitched by Burleigh Grimes during Tuesday's game between Brooklyn and Cleveland, probably will be out of the game for the balance of the week, according to notices received here.

The Indians went to Leeshurg today for a return game, with the Philadelphia Nationals.

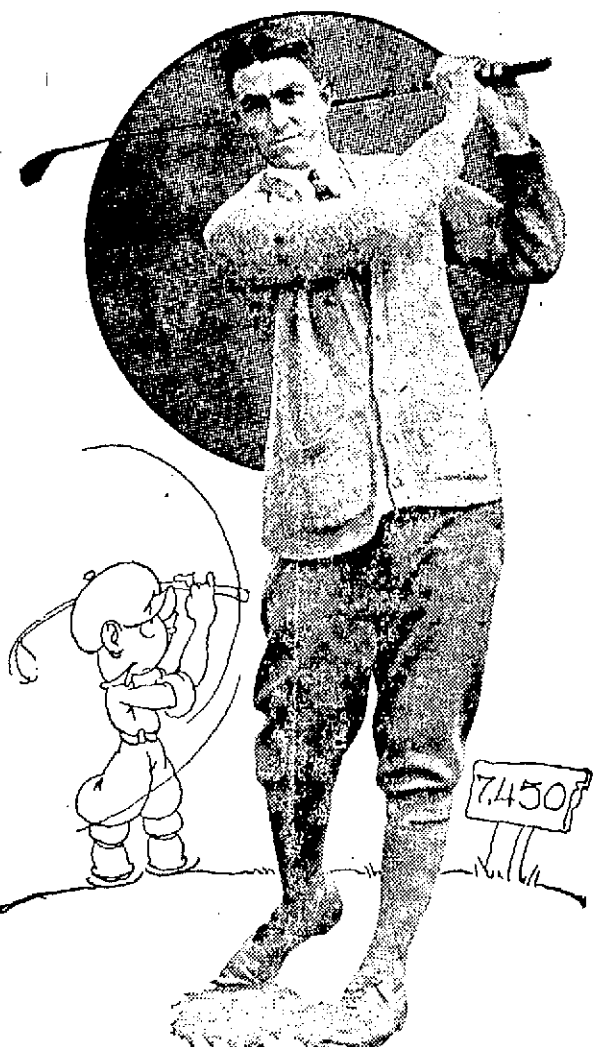

Three Detroit Players Injured

DETROIT, March 28.—Three Detroit players received injuries on an unimportant game at Toledo, Ohio, in a practice game with the Red-waters Internationals was staged today.

Blue and Hellmann developed "Charles" horses, the former through his efforts to hang onto the side of a hill and guard first base and the latter through his efforts to negotiate uncertain terrain in the outfield. Johnson stepped into a hole on the edge of the pitcher's box and pulled a muscle.

The injury to the back sent Ty Cobb to the mound for the final three innings, the manager preferring to risk his own safety rather than that of some indispensable boxman.

Serving Youth on the Golf Links

JOHNNY FARRELL

By BILLY EVANS

If youth is to continue to hold sway in golf, one cannot overlook Johnny Farrell of New York.

This youngster, who is getting the benefit of Jim Barnes' experience, seems destined to cut a wide swath in golf circles inside of the next two years, if not sooner.

Recently I have seen Farrell perform in a number of golf tournaments in the south, and his work has been one of the outstanding features of the play of the many professional stars now touring that section.

Farrell is in a sense a protégé of Jim Barnes. The veteran is very fond of the youngster, and was paired with him during a recent invasion of Cuba, as well as in many of the southern matches.

In company with a half dozen golf professionals, I watched a foursome match at the Miami, Fla., country club course, recently, in which Mike Brady and Tommy Armour were pitted against Leo Diegel and Johnny Farrell. The golfing fame of Brady and Diegel has been established for some time, and they are ranked as one of the country's veteran stars. Diegel is a youngster who has arrived, while Farrell is coming faster than perhaps any other golfer in the country. He is just about ready to take his place among the truly greats. Armour has just turned professional.

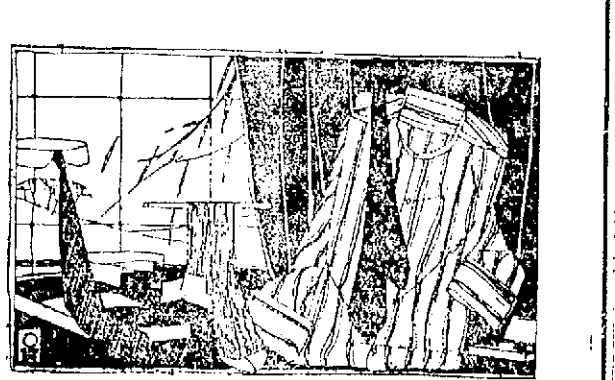

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

With the ball in sporting activities until after Easter plans for a continuation of the indoor games next week are already taking shape. Wrestling will come on Monday night with basketball on Wednesday night, boxing Thursday and polo Tuesday and Friday.

Plans to bring an all-star polo team here to play the Lowell champions a series of games, the first to begin Tuesday night, are progressing. Several of the stars of other teams in the north and south are now engaged in the pursuit, it is the intention of the management to select the strongest combination available. Already a number of fans have advanced suggestions relative to possibilities in the future of the fans will be complied with when possible.

In bringing his third pennant to Lowell, Capt. Harkins attained a rare accomplishment, and already has been the recipient of many congratulations. And few realized that the sturdy Lowell pilot played in that the early Lowell game with a severely injured hand. In the previous game Harkins sustained a bad gash on the back of the right hand, when the member came in contact with Fred Adams' stick. The injury was a painful one, and it caused a great swelling. It was the same hand that Harkins

PHILLIES HOPE TO FINISH SIXTH

Art Fletcher, New Manager, Explains His Theories to Billy Evans

Hopes to Do Better Than Seventh Place, Last Year's Mark

Infield Will Be Greatly Improved and Catching Top-notch

By BILLY EVANS

LEESBURG, Fla., March 28.—Art Fletcher, new manager of the Phillies, is an optimist.

Fletcher reached the ranks of stardom as shortstop for the New York Giants.

Trained in the school of John McGraw, Fletcher thinks victory all the time. He has no place in his vocabulary.

Placed in charge of a team that many critics are unkind enough to consign to last place, Fletcher is in no way discouraged. He plans to make a better showing than the Phillies did last year. He feels that he will be able to carry out his plans.

Regardless of where they finish the Phillies of 1923 will play with a much better spirit than did the team of last year. Fletcher's aspiration will battle all the way.

When defeated, they will go down fighting rather than meekly accepting the reverse, with the thought that the playing of the game merely delays the season that much nearer to the close.

Theories of Fletcher

Fletcher never fails to impress upon his players that they did not finish last in 1922. The Phillies have held down the tail-end position for so many years that Fletcher wants his players to keep in mind the fact they did not finish there last year.

The other point that he keeps driving home is that by finishing sixth the club will show a substantial improvement. In various ways he tries to show where the team is stronger than last year and should make a better showing.

Sidestep Last Place

Keep out of last place, Fletcher keeps preaching that theory to his athletes. He doesn't want his team to hit the cellar a single time during the season. He seeks to stay out of the cellar, but the Phillies manager refuses to see it in that light.

Fletcher feels that Boston is better than an eighth place team. However, he doesn't want to beat out Boston last year. Fletcher sees no reason why they cannot repeat. Incidentally Brooklyn is the other club that he expects to nose out.

The Probable Lineup

Unquestionably the Phillies of this year will be a considerable improvement over last year. The club will present practically the same lineup of last year, with the exception of Sands and Hohe at first base.

In all probability Williams, Walker and Lee will start in the outfield. The ability of Williams is well known. Lee has promise, while Curtis Walker looks like a sure enough star. Walker is the youngster secured from McGraw in one of the several deals made by Philly with New York.

Fletcher's ball club doesn't look so much on paper, but it is displaying a spirit in training that will be something entirely new to the Philly fans. Even that should help.

BRAYES WILL HAVE FAST TEAM

The Braves will be represented on the diamond by a fast ball club this year if plans adopted at a recent meeting bear fruit. The following veterans of last year will return to the fold with the announced "play ball" O'Loughlin, Murphy, Redding, Clegg and others. Applicants for vacant positions are requested to communicate with the manager at once.

had broken in Lawrence last season. When dressing for the game Tuesday night, the Lowell "star" regularly as assistance, but he refused to quit. He borrowed a large glove to encase the swollen paw and he went into the box and played a masterly game. He had difficulty in hitting with one eye, but his usual custom, but he grabbed the stick firmly with both hands, and the ball passed and hit, was a caution. This stunt demonstrated his versatility, and when many of those who called to congratulate him after the game, saw the injury they marvelled at how he had been able to put up such a banner exhibition.

Friends of all the players were elated at their success in putting Lowell back on the polo map, as the business city of the circuit. Kid Williams, whose wonderful goal scoring abilities have made him the winning end of the championship game in 22 consecutive years, was kept busy acknowledging "salutes" all day. The aggressive and powerful goal forward was a first class goal scorer, and prominently in the final drive, and whose playing in the series has been spectacular, with the reliable, constant and effective Andy Morrison, who proved the eventual hero in deciding pennant possession, also had their quota of salutes and well-wishers to meet and exchange greetings.

The championship emblem has already arrived. It is a large red banner with the inscription "National Roller Polo League Champions, Season of 1922-1923." It will be formally presented to the team in the first game of the All-Star Lowell series, May 10, at Lowell. It is expected that the team will extend official greetings, and turn the pennant over to Capt. Harkins. A large delegation from Lowell, home of the title, is planning to take in the event. It looks like another big night.

The St. Patricks and the Highland quinet, which have agreed to train to begin a two out of three series to determine the city amateur championship, will engage in light practice in preparation for the opening game.

Newport Johnny Brown, who lost the decision to Lew Paltrow last week in a boxing match, will be back. He will box the winner, take all, providing he will make 125 pounds. In their last meeting Paltrow weighed 132 pounds and Brown weighed 125 pounds. A real lightweight, Brown at 125 pounds is well within the limit, and he is confident that he can take Paltrow at 125 pounds.

Fletcher Is Definitely Through as Player

By BILLY EVANS

LEESBURG, Fla., March 28.—Art Fletcher, new manager of the Phillies, has definitely decided that he is through with active service.

In some circles it was believed that Fletcher as manager of the club would make an attempt to get into playing condition in the belief that his presence in the lineup would strengthen the Phillies.

Fletcher, however, has dispelled such gossip by the announcement that he is through. Only the direst emergency will cause the new pilot to get back into the game.

It will be remembered that Fletcher retired from the game for a year. At that time he believed the retirement was permanent. The year's layoff caused Fletcher to lose some of his sprightliness and despite every effort to regain it he cannot come back to old-time form.

STASIAK TO ATTEMPT TO THROW TWO OPPONENTS

Stanley Stasiak, Polish Hercules and one of the best heavyweight wrestlers in the country today, will appear at the Crescent rink on Easter Monday night. The Polish wonder has agreed to meet and toss two very strong opponents in Justinia Silvia and A. Silvia.

Silvia needs no introduction to the Lowell grappling fans, for in his bout in this city a week ago, he showed his prowess as a wrestler. He was easily pitted against Frank Yuskos, the western wrestler, the lad representing Italy. A. Rizzo, a well known southpaw, with the Phillies last year, but didn't get much of a chance, is listed among the possibilities. This has the staff but is inexperienced. For that reason Fletcher is weak in pitching and he will simply rely.

"What national league club isn't?"

The veteran Jimmy Ring and Wilbur Hubbell are the other two hopes of the Phillies. Winters must show or go. Pitching is the one department in which the Phillies appear rather weak. Give him the argument that the Phillies are weak in pitching and he will simply rely.

U. OF PENN. MEN TO COMPETE

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—The University of Pennsylvania will send a medley relay team to compete in the mile and seven eighth event at the University of Kansas meet, April 18. It was announced today.

Ellis and Flannagan will box at 124 pounds.

Lynch's opponent will be Bill "Midnight" Smith, and Genaro will meet Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind.

Sacha Guitry Tries Twice to Score—And Fails

MARION COAKLEY IN "BARNUM WAS RIGHT"

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, March 29.—Sacha Guitry reached Broadway's first base twice this week, with "The Comedian" and with "Pasture." In each instance he failed to score.

Relaxed used a lot of strategy in an effort to score with "The Comedian." He sent Lionel Atwill to bat in the title role, gave the play an excellent cast and effective staging, but when the side was retired "The Comedian" was no further advanced than second base. The blame is Guitry's. "The Comedian" isn't of his league caliber. Atwill, Guitry, Relaxed and a play about an actor—it seemed as though another "Deburau" were on the way. But "Deburau" compared to "The Comedian" was a Babe Ruth, to continue the baseball metaphor. "The Comedian" deals with a notable of the Parisian stage who hates to grow old. He marries an 18-year-old girl. He places her as his leading woman in a revival of one of his hits. The first night was enough of that for him. She would have to quit her part. Very well, then, she'd quit him, too. All right, quit me, I'm wedded to my art, he replied, in effect. And there's the play. It is highly amusing in spots, especially when the players run up and down the aisles during a rehearsal scene, but the whole thing smacks too much of the theatre to be highly interesting in a theatre.

"Pasture" is notable as a play because it hasn't a single woman in the cast. It lacks dramatic action, since it deals with incidents in the life of the great scientist. It not only lacks dramatic action—it lacks drama.

Guitry set himself to the task of idealizing a man of science by making a dramatic figure of that man. Drinkwater did the same sort of thing much more effectively with Abraham Lincoln.

When Drinkwater had completed his delineation of Lincoln he had put upon the stage a living character—something that breathed and seemed worthy of the audience's emotional reactions. Guitry hasn't put enough flesh and blood into his model of Pasteur. After all, the Pasteur he puts upon the stage is only Henry Miller doing his best to make the mummy live.

All that one knows about Pasteur from the play is that he hated doctors and loved little children and that he discovered a serum to prevent hydrophobia.

"Barnum Was Right" seems to be a hybrid of "The Tavern," "The Hat" and a musical comedy. It is a farce concerning the efforts of Donald Blum to gain enough money to win Marion Coakley's father's consent to their marriage. He capitalizes a nut's belief that Spanish treasure is cached in a Long Island house and turns the house into a hotel. Honey-mooners, a chorus queen—and various others register, with rights to search for the treasure.

Denman Maye is the nuttiest nut I've seen this season. His introductory line is always "What seems to be the trouble?" It may become as famous as "What's all the shooting?" from "The Tavern."

This marks Donald Blum's first effort in a non-musical play. On several occasions the stage seems set for a song but it is never forthcoming.

BLOOD SO THIN LIPS WERE PURPLE

Mrs. Peabody Says That Tonic
Treatment Restored Her Health
and Strength

Stomach trouble is often caused by thin blood but in such cases the cause is not always recognized. In case of indigestion when there is pallor of the cheeks and lips it is well to turn to the blood before trying any other or organic stomach trouble.

"My blood was very thin," says Mrs. Flora A. Peabody, of No. 1241 Elm street, Manchester, N. H. "And my lips were purple. My stomach was upset and everything I ate distressed me. I had a heavy feeling, like lead in my stomach. My heart would beat as fast as a gallop. I had no sleep. I lost strength and was so nervous that I seemed I would fly in pieces. I did not rest me and I was tired all the time."

"Nothing helped me until I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and gave them a trial. As I used these pills my blood got richer and I had a better color. I rubbed strength right along and my whole system seemed to build up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and I do not think I would be alive but for them. This statement is absolutely true and I hope it will help others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful in anemia or thin blood, nervousness and its more aggravated forms of sick headache, neuralgia, sciatica and neuritis. They give new strength and vigor and if you need this tonic, you should get a sixty-cent box from your nearest druggist today and begin the treatment.

Write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the helpful booklet, "Building Up the Blood." It costs you nothing—Adv.

FREAKS ARRIVE

"Lionel, the lion-faced boy," was one of the large collection of human freaks who arrived in New York from Germany to join American circuses. Lionel is the highest-priced freak in existence.

TUBE WATER PAIL.
A good section of an old inner tube may be cut off to make a water pail such as shown here. Heat one end until it becomes sticky enough to glue the pieces together. Then turn the other end over a piece of wire that has been formed into a circle and handle. The tube will be handy for filling the radiator while on the highway.

GERMANY RESUMES ORIENTAL TRADE

BERLIN, March 28.—Germany is rapidly resuming its trade in the far east, in spite of the fact that its islands in the Pacific were taken away by the Versailles treaty, and business was interrupted for years by war conditions and the destruction and interference of its business men.

For the first nine months of 1922, Germany sold Japan goods valued at $2,500,000 yen. In 1913, German exports to Japan for the entire 12 months aggregated only $1,000,000 yen. The yen is worth about 50 cents. In 1921, Germany sold China goods valued at $1,000,000 yen. An increase is anticipated in the figures for 1922, which German exporters believe will make the year's business greater than that of 1913, which was $2,000,000 yen. The yen is worth about one dollar and forty cents.

Before the war Germany had been between four and five thousand citizens in China engaged in various commercial pursuits. It is estimated now that two-thirds of these are again in China, endeavoring to re-establish their business connections. German consuls have been back in all the principal business centers of China for some time, including the Tientsin concession which Japan wrested from Germany at the beginning of the great war, and which has recently been evacuated by the Japanese and turned back to China.

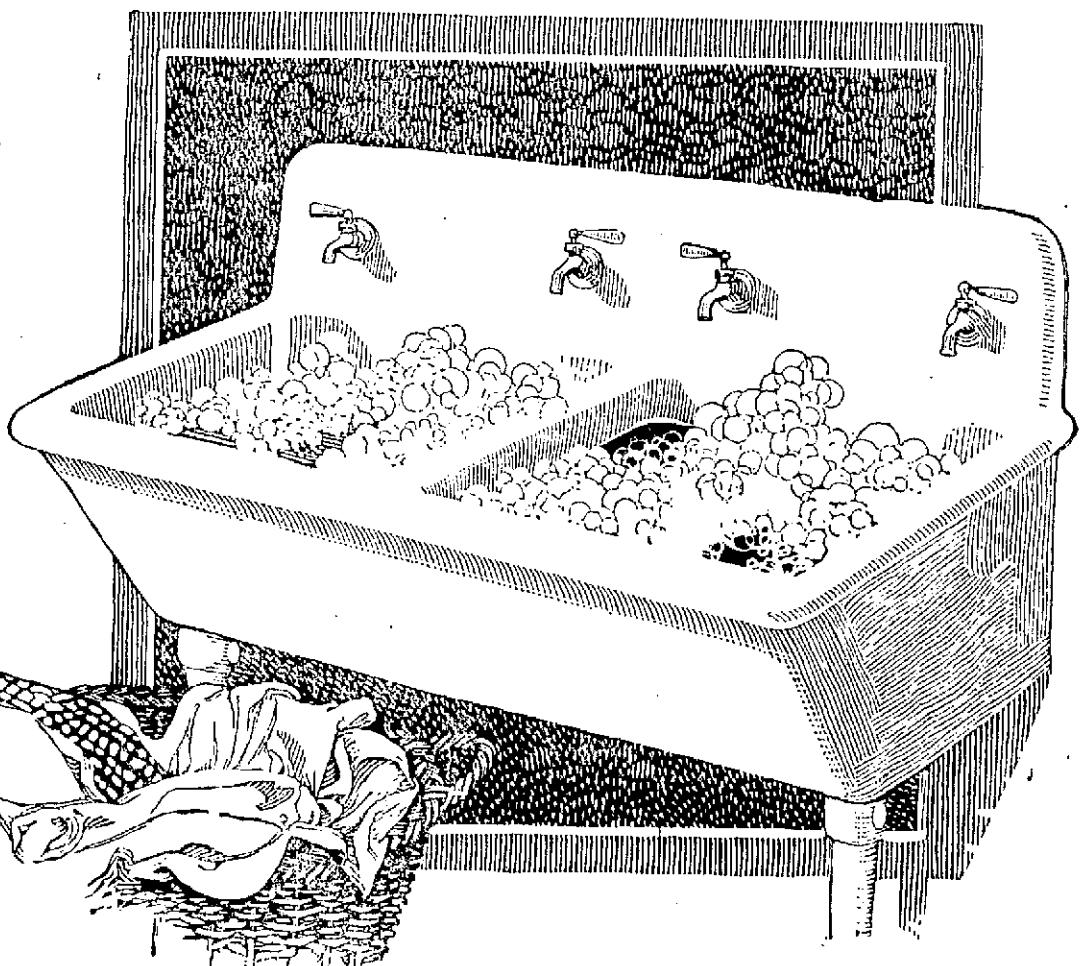

Germany's ambitious plans for vast territorial possessions in the Pacific, which might form the basis for great naval and commercial power, have been defeated at least for the present, by the loss of Tientsin, the Marshall and Caroline islands, New Guinea and other south sea possessions. But German steamship lines have resumed their sailings to the orient and are making an effort to regain their lost business.

takes the place of rubbing

This new kind of soap soaks the dirt out

Just by soaking in the suds of this new soap, the most ground-in dirt is gently loosened and dissolved.

Even the dirt that gets absolutely ground-in at cuff edges, hems, knees and elbows of children's clothes, is so loosened by soaking in Rinso suds, that it comes out with only a light rubbing. Do that light rubbing with Rinso. A little sprinkled on the worst spots will make them disappear.

Not a thread is weakened. The mild cleansing suds work gently through and through the clothes without injury to a single fibre.

Use Rinso in the washing machine to get whiter clothes in a shorter time. You will find it saves even the little rubbing you may be doing now.

Use it in the boiler if you boil white cottons. Its big, bubbling suds make the clothes sweeter.

You do not need to change your usual washday habits. Just use Rinso wherever you used to use bar soap. Rinso does the whole job. You need no soap powder or any other soap if you use Rinso.

Rinso is made by the world's largest soap makers—the makers of Lux. For the family wash it is as wonderful as Lux is for fine things.

Get Rinso today. All the grocers and department stores have it in two sizes—the regular package and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., 104 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.

APEX, BLUEBIRD, COFFIELD, GAINADAY, GETZ, HAAG, HORTON, LAUN-DRY-ETTE, MEADOWS, "1900" CATARACT, ONE MINUTE, ROTAREX, SUNNYSUDS, SURF, TROJAN, VOSS, say to use Rinso in their washing machines

THESE men advise the public to use Rinso in their washing machines just as the textile manufacturers advise the public to wash their fabrics in Lux.

"Rinso suds stand up permanently. They penetrate the water so that every garment is saturated with Rinso solution." That's what the president of the Gainaday Company says.

The president of the Coffield Company writes: "Tried out over a period equivalent to seven years' weekly use, Rinso did not corrode or injure the machine in any way. It can be used with absolute safety. Garments were not weakened by prolonged washing with Rinso."

HIGH SUGAR PRICES SCHOONERS AGROUND

Chairman Hull Says Tariff Commission is "Partially Responsible"

WASHINGTON, March 28.—While the tariff commission was preparing for a broadened inquiry to determine whether present import duties were "evenly distributed" for high sugar prices, Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee, declared in a published statement today that it had become the duty of the commission to report "immediately" to the president that "it was partially responsible."

Chairman Hull asserted that on a "buyers' market," a 50 per cent. reduction in the sugar tariff, which the president would authorize to make under the flexible provisions of the tariff act, would certainly reduce the retail price between two and three cents a pound.

"Although the president finds it hard to believe that the tariff is responsible even in part for the high price of sugar," Mr. Hull said, "the tariff commission should nevertheless do its plain duty in the matter in order that the president may carry out his promise and thus give the public measure of relief."

"When the government gets in distress as a result of this tariff inflation on sugar as well as other commodities, it should do something to relieve the situation and not submissively continue to take its share of the loot."

Five-Masted Craft Ashore Off Stone Horse Shoal— Cutter Standing By

CLATHAM, March 28.—A five-masted schooner, laden and bound north, went aground on the west edge of the new channel off Stone Horse Shoal during the night. The coast guard cutter Acushnet was standing by today. The sea was too rough to permit the coast guardmen from stations here to go out to the vessel, which was aground at high water and was in a dangerous position.

The schooner proved to be the Dorothy Palmer, bound from Norfolk for Portland, with coal. The Acushnet reported she would attempt to float her when wind and sea moderated somewhat. A northwest gale was blowing over the shoals when the message was sent.

Later the Acushnet sent by radio a request that the Monomoy Point coast guard crew take off the crew of the schooner. The coast guardmen made immediate preparations to set out in their boat for the stranded vessel. The wind had moderated slightly but the seas were still running high.

Nanticoke Driven Ashore VINEYARD HAVEN, March 28.—The three-masted schooner Nanticoke dragged ashore on East Chop during a northwesterly gale early today, and was still held fast this forenoon. The captain and crew remained aboard. The schooner, bound from Nantucket, was on her way to New York to load coal.

HUSBAND SUES GLORIA SWANSON FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—Gloria Swanson, motion picture actress, sued for divorce yesterday by Herbert K. Somborn, who charged her with desertion, had made no statement on the suit today but friends recalled her declaration after their separation nearly two years ago that she was "through with married life" and would devote her life to her child and the films.

The child, Gloria Swanson Somborn, two and a half years old, will remain with her mother, it is reported, regardless of the outcome of the divorce action.

Somborn followed Miss Swanson's example and made no statement but his attorney announced there would be "no sensational testimony."

The complaint states they were married Dec. 20, 1919, and separated May 15, 1921, and alleges the actress maliciously and willfully gave cause for divorce and "persisted in her abandonment and desertion of him against his wishes."

At the time of their marriage, Somborn gave his age as 36, and Miss Swanson as 20. Miss Swanson was first married to Wallace F. Berry, motion picture actor, in February, 1916. He divorced her on the grounds of desertion in December, 1918.

MAYOR SIGNS $3500 ORDER

Mayor John J. Donovan today signed the order providing for the expenditure of $3500 for the acquisition of land in Richmond avenue for playground purposes. This order was introduced in the council by Councilor Daniel F. Moriarty and eventually passed.

In commenting upon his approval of the order Mayor Donovan said: "As a general proposition, I do not look with favor upon land purchases for playground purposes this year. I would much prefer that money be spent for improvement of playgrounds we already have."

"I felt satisfied, however, that an exception should be made in this particular matter. I find that the proposed playground is in a very congested district of the city, and under supervision of the park department, with improvements which they will make, this area will prove of immeasurable benefit to the children of the district."

"It so happens in this particular instance that the purchase price is small in comparison to the beneficial results that will be obtained and for that reason I have approved the order."

MEETING OF C. M. A. C. FINANCE COMMITTEE

Chairman Joseph L. Lamoureux of the finance committee of the C. M. A. C. has called a meeting of the committee for this evening to discuss the ways and means to be adopted by the organization in order to raise funds for the remodeling of the old club building at Parker street.

It will be remembered that a week ago last Tuesday the C. M. A. C. members voted to accept the plans submitted by Blackall, Clapp & White, more Boston architects, for the remodeling of their "home" at an expense of between $60,000 and $70,000, and a finance committee was appointed to secure the money for the improvements. Some members of the committee, it is said, favor the launching of a drive, while others would rather have the association issue bonds to its members. This matter, however, will be discussed at this evening's meeting.

WARREN BANK MAY COLLECT $100,000

WORCESTER, March 28.—It transpired here today that the Warren National bank which was closed a month ago after more than $200,000 in securities had been taken from the vaults, carried a burglary insurance policy for $100,000 and that this is probably not collectable if Frank L. Taylor, president of the bank, who was arraigned in the federal district court in Boston yesterday, is convicted. Raymond F. Fletcher, counsel for the bank, said today that the policy carried a provision that an officer or director of the bank should be involved in any burglary. Taylor stands indicted as the principal in the alleged bank robbery. Abraham Goldman and Joseph Marino, neither of whom was an officer or director, are indicted on charges of aiding and abetting. Attorney Fletcher said it was his opinion that the $100,000 insurance could not be collected unless Taylor was found not guilty by the court.

This was the statement of naval officers aboard. They said the cruiser, which has a 90,000-ton displacement, is the largest in the United States navy, proved in the storm which she rode out at sea last night, that she would weather the stiffest blows in good shape.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE "IN AND OUT" CLUB

The membership committee of the Lowell chamber of commerce today announced that the personnel of the committee will operate in chamber affairs in the future as the "In and Out Club." Every member of the chamber in good standing shall be eligible to membership in the In and Out Club. The rules of the new organization, which is to boost the work of soliciting new memberships, are as follows:

Each member of the club pledges himself to work until he has secured three members and his successor, he shall be known as an "Out." Until then, he shall be known as an "In." An "Out" has all club privileges, with no work to do, unless he wants to.

Each club member will see to it that he has at all times the names of one or more prospects on which to work. Each club member shall be prepared to report on interesting calls made, whether he secured them or not. So far as possible, club members will make up with another club member in calling on prospects. Meetings will be held at luncheon, each member to pay for his own. A club member shall be fined 10 cents for showing any signs of discouragement in the work. Meetings shall last only one hour. This rule is absolute. The secretary will issue two days prior to each meeting, a mimeographed bulletin calling attention to the next meeting. The secretary is particularly cautioned against allowing any person to appear in the bulletin. Anything else goes.

There will be an important meeting of the membership committee handling the new club idea of securing new chamber members, Monday noon, April 3. There will be dinner as usual.
